EVERLEIGH GIRLS PICK OF COUNTRY, WOMAN TELLS COURT

Chicago, Ill.—The girls of the old Everleigh club, the notorious underworld resort the skeleton of which have been rattled in the conspiracy trial of the wealthy W. E. D. Stokes of New York, married into the richest families in the country, according to Stokes' informant.

Pride in her youthful aristocracy of the under-crust was evidenced by Minnie Everleigh, as Stokes, in his testimony Thursday, said he found her living under the name of Miss Lester in Seventy-first, New York, when he interviewed her in an effort to trace a red haired girl, Helen Underwood, who had been an inmate of the resort. He is being tried for conspiracy to defame his estranged wife, Helen Elwood Stokes of Denver.

Norris, Nebraska, Attacks Plan to Add to Size of Committees

Washington, D. C.—With the support of the senators they have read out of the party councils, the Republicans pounced Friday on the reorganization of the new senate.

Senator Moses of New Hampshire, was elected president pro tempore, 36 to 50, over Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, the choice of the Democratic conference.

The other officers on the Republican slate—George A. Sanderson, secretary, and David S. Barry, sergeant-at-arms—then were elected over candidates put forward by the Democrats and the organization was completed except for approval of committee assignments. The committee rosters were not presented because the Democratic conference had been unable to complete its assignments and the Republican conference consequently did not act.

BLAINE EXTOLS TAX ON INCOMES

Iowa Legislature Told Industries Are Not Leaving Wisconsin

Des Moines, Ia.—A letter from Governor John J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, in which the executive extolled the income tax and denied that the law had caused any business corporations to leave the state, was made public at the state house of Representative Patterson of Kossuth, co-author of the Patterson-Johnson income tax bill, now pending in the Iowa legislature.

"Wisconsin has had a marvelous industrial growth," Governor Blaine's letter declared. "The income tax road. Not a single industry has left the state, while on the other hand many industries have come to the state."

The governor declared that Wisconsin's industrial gain in the past four years "has been exceeded by no state east of the Mississippi except four automobile-industrial states and Wisconsin is fast catching up with them."

Mr. Patterson in a statement quoted figures of the United States internal revenue department to show that between 1917 and 1922 New York gained 18,000 business corporations, and Wisconsin 600, both states having an income tax law, while Iowa without one lost 400 business corporations.

TIE CHILDREN TOGETHER TO RESIST SWIFT GALE

Dutch Harbor, Alaska—Gales of great velocity were sweeping the Aleutian islands today. Seven houses at Unalakleet were roofless this morning and one launch was torn from her moorings and tossed about on the waters of Margaret Bay.

Children attending the territorial schools here were bound with ropes like mountain climbers, yesterday to resist the force of the storm, that threatened to carry them into the sea. Linked with ropes the children were able to make their way safely to the Jesse Lee Home Methodist mission.

FORBES SEEKS WRIT OF ERROR IN FRAUD CASE

Chicago—Application for a writ of error on behalf of Colonel Charles E. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans Bureau, recently found guilty with John W. Thompson of conspiracy, was filed in federal court Friday. Forbes' counsel seeks to appeal the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Slav of sentence of Forbes, who like Thompson, was fined $10,000 and sentenced to prison for two years, was extended for 40 days by Judge Samuel A. Schuler of the circuit court of appeals, but he refused to pass on the application for a writ of error.

Deputy Marshal W. T. Pugh will be in charge of the prisoners. Police chief Arthur Buchanan and one member of the police department will accompany the party, and two more deputy marshals are expected here today to assist as guards.

ousting of Labor Member Cause of Storm in Commons

Dismissal Overshadows Speech of Foreign Secretary in Press

London—The storm that suddenly arose in the house of commons Thursday culminating in the suspension of the Scotch Labor member, David Kirkwood, and a walkout by the entire Laborite section, overshadowed Foreign Secretary Chamberlain's speech in the morning newspapers' accounts of the session.

Former Premier MacDonald, the Labor leader, was expected to move Friday that time be given for discussion of a vote of censure upon Deputy Speaker Hope, on the ground that his action in the Kirkwood case was unwarranted.

There is a wide divergence of opinion among the politicians and public some blaming Mr. Hope and others Kirkwood.

It is admitted that Mr. Kirkwood persistently interrupted the foreign secretary and seemed bent upon showing that the foreign affairs of which he was speaking were of trifling interest. On the other hand, it is contended that wide license habitually has been given to the laborite extremists in view of their lack of acquaintance with parliamentary customs and that Mr. Hope seemed to show unnecessary impatience and lack of tact.

ILLNESS OF LORD CURZON NOT REGARDED SERIOUS

Cambridge, England—Marquess Curzon of Kedleston, lord president of the council and leader of the house of lords, who collapsed here last night while dressing for a public dinner, at which he was to have spoken, is not in a serious condition according to the physicians who examined him. It is thought he may be able to return to London today. The outward symptoms of his illness were faintness and slight nosebleeding.

Padlock Casts Shadow Over Great White Way

New York—The shadow of the padlock nemesis of liquor violators has eclipsed New York's Great White Way. Prohibition by padlock is the watchword of United States District Attorney Emory R. Buckner, who launched a sensational prohibition law enforcement drive Thursday night, just four days after he took office.

Complaints charging violation of the dry laws were made against the proprietors of 14 fashionable restaurants, on evidence gathered by young men who spent $1,500 of the district attorney's own money in their investigation. Injunctions against these named will be sought, and in event they are enjoined by the court, their establishments will be padlocked; otherwise they will be placed on prohibition for six months.

Mr. Buckner declared, the hivings of the men "high up" have been arrested and fined, the

FRIENDS DENY DAWES HAS EYE ON PRESIDENCY

Vice President Reaches Over Heads of Senate to American People

STRIKES AT WEAKNESSES

May Gain Greater Confidence When Cloakroom Friendships Ripen

By David Lawrence

Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co. Washington, D. C.—Vice President Dawes' lecture to the United States Senate is still the "talk of the town." Does it mean that he has begun a 1928 campaign for the presidency? He knew in advance his speech would not sit well on the senators but that he was appealing over the heads of the senate to the American people. His best friends say presidential ambition is farthest from his thoughts and that what he did on Wednesday was simply the "Dawes way of doing things."

Viewed dispassionately there is no doubt that many of the senators realized Mr. Dawes was striking at one of the weaknesses of the senate the ability of one senator to block legislation and even defeat it by filibuster. But the true defect is not in rule 22 as Mr. Dawes pointed out but in the senate's failure to control the agenda which allows important bills to drag along either in committee or in the senate and then at the last moment a minority can exercise a powerful influence.

CAN FORCE VOTE

Under the present rules it is possible for 16 members of the senate to force a vote on cloture, but it is seldom done. Frequently, too, the majority party is not free to control the filibusters of the minority kill legislation so that the responsibility for defeat of bills they themselves dislike can be placed on the shoulders of the minority. Mr. Dawes will have to reform the entire political morality of congress before he can get at the heart of the trouble.

Talking with different senators, one gets the impression that most of them resented the Dawes speech for various reasons. The democrats, of course, said he behaved "like a clown" shaking his fist at the senate and shouting in a high pitched voice. Some Republicans said privately they thought it was in bad taste to make a controversial speech on such an occasion when senators themselves are in duty bound to remain silent. On any question of changing the rules, the senators feel there are two sides and many of them would have liked to point out the safeguards in the present system but they refrained because it was a ceremonial and not time for debate.

WANTS INITIATIVE

When Mr. Dawes gets into the cloakroom and knows his senators well enough to slip them on the back, he will find the resentment against his speech disappearing. If he is an impartial presiding officer, he will win the esteem of the senate but he will find that the senate likes to take the initiative in proposing changes in the rules and that both the Democrats and Republicans feel that on occasion they have saved the country from disaster by their lack of acquaintance with parliamentary customs and that Mr. Hope seemed to show unnecessary impatience and lack of tact.

Some of the Conservatives and Liberals share in this view and many Liberals, including some of the leaders, voted against Kirkwood's suspension.

GOVERNMENT WINS $11,000,000 SHIP CORPORATION SUIT

Federal Court Reverses $2,500,000 Finding in Favor of Ship Builders

Alexandria, Va.—The federal government has won a judgement of $11,000,000 against the Virginia Shipbuilding corporation headed by Charles W. Morse in its four-year-old legal battle involving claims and counter-claims growing out of the corporation's war time shipbuilding contract with the shipping board.

Reversing a previous finding in favor of the shipbuilders, Judge F. Nichols awarding $2,500,000 to the corporation, the decision in favor of the government was handed down here yesterday by Federal Judge Waddill. It has not been made known whether the corporation will appeal the decision.

The judgement is in part satisfaction of a counterclaim for $21,000,000 brought by the government against the Morse concern after the latter had sued the government for $6,000,000 on account of the seizure by the shipping board of nine ships built by the corporation. The seizure involved a disagreement over accounting and charges that the corporation was expending for other purposes funds advanced by the government for construction of ships for the government fleet at its yard here.

The decision is the second rendered by Judge Waddill, in favor of the government during the litigation.

AUTHORIZES U. S. ENVOY TO PAY BANDIT VICTIMS

Peking—The American legation Friday was authorized to pay claims of Americans for acts of banditry committed by Chinese when the Shanghai-Peking express train was raided by bandits on May 26, 1923, and 500 persons were taken to a temple at Fortress Pootzuku and held for ransom. The money satisfied the claims was paid recently by the Chinese government and is known as the "A and B" Linchoung funds.

MATCH PLANES WITH GUNS IN AIRCRAFT TEST

Secretary Weeks Arranges Demonstration to Show Legislators

EMPHASIZE ONLY ONE SIDE

Program for Official Visitors Includes Visit to Langley Field

By Associated Press

Fortress Monroe, Va.—Post war anti-aircraft guns were matched Friday in a test with aircraft to demonstrate before doubtful legislators and other Washington officials their worth.

Norfolk, Va.—The 12 army pursuit planes which left Selfridge Field, Mich., last week on a dawn to dusk flight to Miami, Fla. Friday, were to take part in the air defense maneuvers to be held in the vicinity of Fortress Monroe.

The planes made the hop from Augusta, Ga., to Langley Field yesterday. Permission for a second dawn to dusk flight from Selfridge held to Miami already has been asked by Major Thomas G. Lamphear commanding the squadron, he announced on arrival here.

against enemy air bombers. The test was arranged by Secretary Weeks and was designed to help in the determination of the question of relative values of land guns and aircraft as defensive weapons against air invaders in war time.

Only one side of the question however, was to be emphasized. That was what progress had been made since 1918 in developing gunfire efficiency against raiding aircraft.

The program for the official visitors also included a trip to Langley field to inspect various types of aircraft and witness exhibitions of formation flying, gliding, target demonstrations, smoke screen laying, parachute flare suits with bombing and gunnery exhibitions.

"The newer model guns," an official statement on the tests said, would be able to maintain a rate of at least 20 shots per minute. The danger zone surrounding one of these guns is at present a space contained within a surface which is approximately a hemisphere, having an altitude of 24,000 feet and a base of about 45,000 feet, or something over eight miles. An airplane flying at a rate of 50 miles an hour passing through the center of this zone at an altitude of 10,000 feet would be under effective fire for about six minutes, during which the battery would be able to fire from 280 to 500 shots."

Roosevelt's Sons Will Follow Father's Steps

New York—The call for far lands which lured the late Theodore Roosevelt into darkest Africa and up the "River of Doubt" in Brazil holds its enchantment for his sons, T. R. Jr. and Kermit.

They will leave the United States early in April to follow the trail of Marco Polo into one of the few remaining parts of the earth as wild and mysterious as those which their father visited—the Himalayan region of southwest Asia.

According to the Roosevelts, no American expedition and very few others headed by white men have penetrated this region since Polo passed through it to pay his respects to the Great Khan of China.

Consequently, there are few specimens of the mammals and birds of the country in museums here or abroad, and the expedition will endeavor to supply this deficiency. All its specimens will go to the Field Museum in Chicago.

EXPECT PERSHING TO LEAVE BED TO VISIT PRESIDENT OF CUBA

By Associated Press

Havana—General John J. Pershing, taken ill here last Thursday after he arrived from Santiago de Cuba, with his mission as guests of the Cuban, was still in bed early Friday morning and was not expected to arise until Saturday when he is expected to visit President Zayas.

General Pershing and party came to Havana after a three months tour of South America. Accompanying him were Admiral Dayton and Minister Plenipotentiary, Frederick C. Hinks, with their aides.

It was announced Thursday that the battleship Utah would arrive here today and remain in the harbor until next Tuesday when the Mission will go aboard and sail for New York. On the physicians' advice the number of visitors to the general were cut down. Thursday. At the same time it was announced that the matter was more of a precaution than a necessity. The long round of official functions and train journey from Santiago to Havana were given as the cause of the General's indisposition.

WOULD KEEP STONE IN CABINET POST

Senator Copeland Declares Warren Not the Man to Fight Aluminum Trust

By Associated Press

Ann Arbor.—Royal S. Copeland, United States senator from New York, addressing delegates to the Democratic state convention Thursday night declared that he wished Harlan F. Stone might have been continued as attorney general.

"I would rather that Mr. Stone might be attorney general than Charles B. Warren," the speaker asserted. Mr. Warren's bent of mind is not such as to permit him to understand the manipulation of the aluminum trust. Of course, we will confirm Warren's appointment in a few days. But he is the president's baby. Let him bring him up. I don't want to."

Senator Copeland lashed what he termed the President's interferences in legislative affairs. He declared that it is not the president's function to swing votes by giving buckwheat cake breakfasts and trips on the Mayflower to members of congress.

"Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, is not in Washington for his health," the speaker charged. "It is there to take care of the aluminum trust. The senator characterized Vice President Dawes' first appearance as presiding officer of the Senate Wednesday as a 'most pathetic spectacle.'"

WATCHES DEMONSTRATION

General Mitchell was at Langley Field, Va., to witness the anti-aircraft gun demonstrations when the announcement of his successor was made, but his office gave out a statement prepared by him before his departure.

"The question of my reappointment as assistant chief of the air service," he said, "is a small matter. The question of the reorganization of our system of national defense is a very big matter. The people must decide what our national defense should be, and to arrive at a conclusion, they must read them today!"

WANT TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC HAZARDS ON JOHN-ST BRIDGE
City Prepares Plans for Outside Walk—Also for 3,000 Feet of New Sewers

An outside walk on John-st bridge and about 3,000 of new sewer installations are among the projects for which E. M. Connelly, city engineer, and his assistants are preparing plans and specifications at the present time. It is expected that these matters will be presented to the common council at the next regular meeting.

The department also is working hard to finish the drawings and specifications for the paving work which is to be done this summer. Mr. Connelly believes these will be ready so they may be placed in the hands of contractors early next week for preparation of bids.

It has been felt for some time by city officials that something should be done to facilitate traffic on John-st bridge. The roadway is narrow and cars must pass quite close to one another without driving up onto the sidewalk. The plan is to build a walk outside the present bridge railing, and utilize the entire space on the bridge proper for traffic. Pedestrians then will be protected by the railing, whereas now they are in danger from cars that might run onto the unguarded walk.

Many of the sewer connections included in the new plans is work that the council refused to authorize last fall, due to the lateness of the season and the lack of funds in the street department budget. The desire is to start these projects early this season.

know and be told the truth about what we have, what we need and how it should be handled."

"So far as I am concerned, I shall continue to work for the benefit and improvement of everything that applies to our national welfare. I am extremely proud of what the men in the air forces have done to further our national development, and with the assistance of those who know and will tell the truth to the people we shall accomplish a great deal of good for the country of the future."

"As soon as the sound of the cannon had ceased on the western front," General Mitchell added, "the forces of progress began to work in our country. This was because our participation in the war had been of such duration that the old, inefficient, bureaucratic system of handling our national defense had not yet been entirely replaced by new and efficient system and personnel as was the case in the countries of Europe and with us during the civil war."

UTILIZE FORCE
There is no reason why the air forces in time of peace should not be employed in mapping the country, patrolling the forests to prevent forest fires, carrying the mail, eliminating insect pests, from cotton, fruit trees and other vegetation, and in making an aeronautical commercial transportation survey of the country to determine what can be carried economically and at profit through the air instead of on boats, railroads, and by automobiles and in working out new commercial air routes throughout the world.

"Armies and navies are no longer capable of enunciating or putting into effect the complete military policy for a country. The voice of the air must be listened to in all councils with equal force as is that of the army and navy. We are further behind in our arrangements of national defense in this country, commensurate with our position strength and wealth, than any other great nation. We are spending too much money, getting too little for it, have only the most rudimentary plans for the future and no organization capable of carrying them out in their entirety."

"Our national defense should be coordinated under a single direction with a secretary of the national defense having under him sub-secretaries of air, land and water."

TAKE TESTIMONY IN MORE CLAIMS FOR COMPENSATION

Marion Sewer Cavein Case Involves Penalty for Violating Safety Order

Several workmen's compensation claims were disposed of and testimony was taken on others Thursday afternoon and Friday morning by R. J. Knutson, a member of the state industrial commission, who is conducting hearings at the courthouse.

The case of Frank Hentz vs. Chicago Northwestern Railroad Co., was disposed of. Hentz lost a finger while working with a saw recently. Another case disposed of was that of Sam Berkich vs. E. A. Yahr. Berkich injured both legs when he stepped behind a digger on a sewer job and was struck by a car. The case of Ben Gustman vs. Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. was taken up for adjournment. Mr. Gustman fractured his arm some time ago and four operations were attempted to bring the bones together, but none were successful.

Another case disposed of was that of Walter Warner and Louis Jaeger vs. R. J. Wilson Co. This case was on the penalty for violating a safety order at Marion recently causing death to one person and injuries to several others.

Other cases on which testimony was taken were Genevieve Kottner, who injured a leg by bumping against machinery while at work, at Banta publishing Co. plant and Herman Rabe vs. Riverside Fibre and Paper Co.

An unusually large amount of informal business was completed, according to R. L. Crabb, official reporter.

PIONEER REMEMBERS TERRIFIC SNOWSTORM OF HALF CENTURY AGO

Snow on Mar. 5 is sufficiently unusual to recall to the minds of pioneers weather stories of days long past. When the first soft flakes began to float Thursday morning they reminded Joseph Koffend Sr., one of Appleton's veteran businessmen, of a March snowstorm 54 years ago. On the day of that storm Mr. Koffend started on a trip to Milwaukee. The sun shone brightly when he got into the train, but during the afternoon the sky became cloudy and a fine, powdery snowfall started. The storm continued for three days, according to Mr. Koffend, and at the end of that time was four feet deep on the level. Horse cars were kept in the barns and traffic was at a standstill for several days until the sun cleared the worst of the drifts.

TWO MEMBERS OF LONG FAMILY HURT

Injuries Result When Ryan & Long and T. J. McCann Cars Collide

Mrs. Thomas J. Long and her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn, were injured in an automobile collision about 1 o'clock Friday afternoon at Washington and Drew-sts. The Ryan and Long Dodge truck driven by Thomas J. Long and a Hudson coach driven by J. T. McCann of the J. T. McCann Co. garage came together and were damaged to the amount of about $300 each.

Miss Long was thrown from the truck when the impact occurred and suffered cuts and bruises to her legs and back. No bones were broken, an examination by a physician revealed. She is able to be about but is suffering some pain. Mrs. Long escaped with only a bruise on one leg. Mr. Long suffered a slight blow on the head but Mr. McCann and a boy riding in the back of the truck were unhurt.

Mr. Long's family was riding down town with him when returning to his office and the truck was proceeding south on Drew-st. The McCann car was going east on Washington-st and the driver was watching traffic at this light, thus failing to see the Long car before it was too late. Mr. McCann headed for a telephone post to avoid hitting the other car but the two came together and the Hudson also crashed into the post.

Fenders, radiators and other parts of both machines were damaged considerably.

"Traffic Cops" Guide Students In Congested Halls Of University

In an effort to let the people of Wisconsin know what is going on at the state university in Madison, Theodore Kronshage, Jr., of Milwaukee, president of the board of regents of the university, has prepared a series of articles picturing the needs of the big school. Mr. Kronshage holds that the state of Wisconsin is fully capable of supporting the university, the way it should be supported and he declares that the regents have made repeated requests to the legislature for buildings and additions which will enable the university to properly instruct the young men and women who are sent to it.

Mr. Kronshage contends the present buildings of the university were built for 4,000 students and that now an effort is being made to instruct 8,000 men and women in them. The situation created by this effort almost baffles description. Mr. Kronshage points out that "traffic rules" are necessary to move the students in old Bascom hall and that one-way corridors are necessary so that students attending classes can get out of the building in time to attend classes in other buildings that are just as congested. More than 2,000 students traverse the narrow corridors of Bascom hall every day and the 43 classrooms are used every minute of the time.

"Nearly 1,500 classes meet in Bascom hall every week," Mr. Kronshage says in his article. "Nine departments with 135 instructors have 'offices' in this old building with its wooden floors and stairs. Of course several instructors and professors usually share the same two-hour office and in some cases have 'shifts' at the same desk."

"And this is not all. The casual visitor cannot know that the men's cloak rooms and study rooms in Bascom hall were eliminated last fall to make class rooms. Nor would he easily discover that the basement storage rooms in Bascom have been converted into offices and laboratories."

"Other buildings are crowded, too. In South hall, besides four deans, a state laboratory, and another large department, one of the two largest schools of journalism in America has four rooms—the most meagre equipment of any of the first-class schools."

"One of the worst jams is to be found in the Chemistry building. Twenty chemistry classes, allowed out of their own building, must meet in four other buildings. Because of lack of laboratory space, 50 students were turned away from classes this year. Exactly 29 instructors are trying to carry on student conferences in one office."

"You parents who send thousands of sons and daughters here have heard of the 'bad conditions,' the lack of contact with professors, the bad ventilation, the uncomfortable seating, the awkward class schedules. What do you expect when you continue to send increasing numbers of sons and daughters here to study, but provide no more buildings?"

"Professors speak of their 'offices' but that's mostly a joke—many of them do their work at home." Now since several must share every cubby-hole. If a business man were to investigate office conditions on the campus, he would wonder how any business could be conducted. A third assistant vice president of a small factory wants a better office than some of those used by university department heads and administrative officers. Imagine a business whose purchasing department is scattered about in half a dozen buildings, with executives, employees, and papers widely separated!

"Yet that is what you find on the campus—the president in one building, his secretary in a corner of the registrar's office, his files in the basement, other administrative officers two blocks down the hill, the various deans scattered in other buildings."

"That is why the University needs an administrative building to bring these officers together. Nearly every other university has one. No business executive would tolerate the present situation."

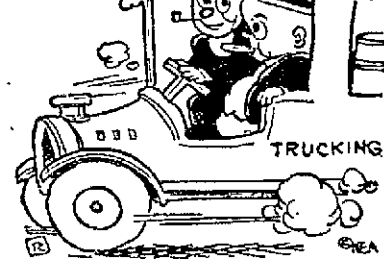

"A business man's problem is easier than the University's. A factory which becomes crowded with stock can rent warehouse space. Student's can't be stored. When enrollment at Wisconsin doubled as compared with available space, the University without more buildings had one alternative—to work its present buildings as best it could."

"That means putting classes in unsuitable class rooms. It means arranging a class schedule which puts a class in every room throughout the day. It means forcing students to attend classes at all sorts of hours, during the lunch hour, or late in the afternoon. It means cutting the size of many quiz classes to 30 or 40 students. It means compelling students to keep out of courses that they desire. But all that goes with 'factory production.' The 'big men' at Wisconsin—some have gone elsewhere—know that first-class university teaching cannot be maintained under such conditions."

"It is to relieve this situation that the University is for the seventh time asking the legislature for an addition to Bascom hall. The plans for this addition were first presented to the legislature of 1913. That legislature thought we ought to have it and voted it. The University then had 4,000 students. It has since been turned down by five legislatures along with other requests for class room buildings. Now with 8,000 students the University is requesting it again, presenting just the same plan that were approved by the legislature of 1913.

"Another burning need is for an addition to the library. The library was built in 1900 when there were 1,868 students. It has 315 places in reading room and periodical room for students—about 650 more would make it livable. Michigan can seat 1,000; Minnesota, profiting by Michigan's mistake, can seat 1,500 in its new library, just finished. Wisconsin is asking that it may have 1,000 seats. As it is, some Wisconsin students do their 'outside reading' on the library stairs or not at all, and some professors are forced to abandon 'outside reading' in their classes. 'We need also an Education building and an addition to the University demonstration high school. Classes in Education enroll more than 1,000 students and every year the University grants more than 250 teachers' certificates. More than 1,000 Wis-

MODERN LIGHT SYSTEM INSTALLED IN FRANCE

By Associated Press
Paris—The National library has capitulated to the demands of its frequenters and put in a system of electric lighting. No longer will it be necessary to close the reading rooms in winter at three o'clock, when the light of day begins to fade, or to carry one's book close to the dim light that filtered through the opaque windows of the old building.

consin school teachers attend its summer session. Its School of Education is one of the largest in the country, with many noted professors, but its equipment is about the poorest. There is hardly a state university in the West—even in the poorest states—that does not have a separate Education building, and Wisconsin school men are demanding it.

"Many people think the University should get a new gymnasium, because the old red Gym which was built in 1894 for 800 men students is now the congested, swarming athletic center of 5,000 men, but urgent as that seems, it takes second place to other needs."

"So for nine years, during which no educational buildings have been erected on the campus, our needs have been piling up and they will go on piling up, until something is done about it. In a word, our buildings were built for 4,000 students—they were crowded in 1916 by 5,000. Since the war 7,000 have been jammed in—then 8,000—and more coming. Do you look for good work under such conditions? You wouldn't expect it in your local high school, your factory, your office, your dairy barn—why in your State University?"

MOST MINISTERS ARE BALDHEADED

London.—The Baldwin cabinet, headed as a "ministry of silk hats" and a "cabinet of Londoners," has achieved another distinction that is likely to prove the nickname "baldwins," already given by the press most appropriate.

For most of them are bald. Only Lord Birkenhead, the Secretary for India, and Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister, can boast of anything like an abundance of hair on their heads, and Mr. Baldwin himself exhibits a distinct cleavage between the desert and the oasis. The rest are beyond aid of paraffin, coconut oil or the thousand and one other preparations guaranteed to cover even a billiard ball with a growth of luxuriant foliage. Unkind critics say that never before has the old phrase, "leather-headed tort" been so strikingly illustrated.

The war minister, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, is accounted the baldest of the "baldwins." Then there is Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, whose lack of hair-stute adornment covers a lesser acre-

ANOTHER ABSURD BILL

Legislative reports from Madison announced that a bill which prohibits a person from working more than six days a week had been advanced to engrossment in the senate. Yesterday the bill was killed. The bill would compel, according to the dispatches, everyone to observe one day of rest in seven.

This is another example of super-progress, and is a further illustration of the absurd lengths to which the scheming politicians at Madison, who temporarily have the destinies of this state in their control, will go. We don't know whether it was intended to be a blue law or a further emancipation of the human race from economic bondage. Whichever it was, it was a silly proposal.

Men are not worked seven days a week in this age against their will. If they want to work that many days it is their own business and a matter between themselves and their employers which the legislature has no right to disturb. There are some occupations and some kinds of service which require seven days duty. None of these occupations is heavy or wearing. It is more a matter of being on hand.

The bill would merely force the employer to hire extra help for one day, thereby adding unnecessarily to his overhead. Nobody is being worked to death in Wisconsin. If anything, less work is being done than ought to be done. We want more instead of less production, more application instead of distraction. The six day a week work bill would be another fine inducement for industry to remain in Wisconsin and capital to seek investment here.

GENERAL DAWES STIRS THE ANIMALS

The vice-president may be a nonentity in our system of government, but at least the senate is to have a presiding officer who proposes to preside in the interest of legislation and public good. General Dawes' inaugural address has stirred up the animals. He has stepped on the toes of the gouty old senate, in fact, he planted his foot right on its corns. Of course there is a howl. The senate is shocked that a new-comer should propose to make it an effective legislative body and to sweep the cobwebs out of its rules.

General Dawes asks for majority rule. He wants to put a stop to filibustering and other obstruction of majority will. He says this can be done with full protection to rights of the minority, and it can be. The United States senate can come nearer to committing legislative suicide than any other law-making body of the world. It twists itself into knots from which it can scarcely untie itself, all to serve the traditions and foibles of old school politicians. Some of the filibusters staged in the senate have been a disgrace to itself and the country, and we ought to put an end to such abuses of government.

General Dawes is right in his proposals even though old fossils, wrapped up and tied in the fetters of tradition, protest and say he is wrong. His reform suggestions will be bitterly resented, and he may not be able to put them into effect. He has, however, raised the issue in a manner that the senate cannot evade, and undoubtedly enough members of judgment and courage will come to his support to make it a real fight. Between Coolidge and Dawes, the politicians who have been accustomed in the past to govern with a high hand are going to have some rough sledding.

IMPROVE THEM ALL

Comes now that perennial disturber of arm chair strategy, Rear Admiral Sims, and declares that the battleship is passing; in fact, he believes that by the time the next war rolls around it will be passe. In his opinion the airplane will be a superior fighting force, both in offense and defense. Furthermore, so far as the fleet is concerned, the airplane carrier is the capital ship of the future and not the battleship. He declares that bombs from aircraft could sink any ship afloat. This will be heartening to General Mitchell. Of a similar view is Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, of the general board of the navy, who says airplanes "are indispensable to the fleet." Probably the best summary of the situation and the doubts which divide and perplex the experts is this suggestion from Admiral Jones:

If we could be assured that we would have no trouble within the next ten years we would know how to prepare for a possible war. But under the present circumstances it is the opinion of the general board that all units of the navy, aircraft included, should be improved simultaneously, not one to the detriment of the other.

Undoubtedly this is the best advice of the day. It is recommended by the fact alone that there is difference of opinion and that a controversy exists as to which arm or arms of national defense shall be emphasized. In the meantime, as he proposes, it is good judgment to strengthen each arm, to keep our navy in the proportion fixed by the Washington agreement and to augment both the air and submarine divisions. Great Britain, France and Japan are spending much money on aircraft carriers, and we should do the same. Our submarines should be equal to the best, for they are certain to play an important part in the "next war."

The agitation about the navy is already accomplishing good. It has given the country a better knowledge of the weaknesses of our national defense and it has rattled the dry bones of the navy. The upshot of it should be a tightening of the belt all along the line and an improvement in the navy as a whole. That is what the country needs. We have always had differences among our military authorities, with the usual jealousies, prejudices and conflicts, and they will continue to exist, but it is well to have them aired from time to time to overcome disorganization, inertia and deterioration that usually results. We think that is what is happening at present.

EDUCATED LEADERSHIP

"A race between education and catastrophe," Wells called civilization. "Leadership by the educated," Professor Max Scheler recently amended it.

Is there much difference, after all? Life has already grown so complicated that its maintenance depends on the application of more knowledge than most of us can have.

There has to be some way of fitting those who have the knowledge to its use by everybody else.

If a few men know electricity, it is enough for the rest of us to push the button.

But these few we must have, and, in electricity, they must lead.

As life grows more and more complicated, the same thing is true in wider and wider fields, until it includes, finally, much of government itself.

The very life of democracy depends on leadership.

Unless democracy can make that leadership competent as well as representative, it must give way to some other form of government.

Ignorant leadership may be less vicious than wicked leadership, but it is just as fatal.

SKATIN'.

WERE all 'precatin' a chance to go skatin'. It's nice to go skimm'n' around. When you know how to glide, why it's just out and dried if you just keep your feet on the ground. There are times, of course, when the sport is a source of worry and frettin' at best. It isn't so nice to be out on the top when you're teachin' a fellow line gurl.

The lady fair slips and she stumbles and trips and she'll suddenly let out a squeal. Any man understands, there's a job on his hands just to hold up his end of the deal.

But it always is true, and the story's not new, that a man has the time of his life, if the lady he's teachin' and constantly reachin', is somebody else but his wife.

I might add that this is a tip to the Missus. In skatin' there's nothing that's wrong. But, just in confiding, when huily goes slidin', inform him you're going along.

Health Talks

Noted Physician And Author

COLD LOGIC.

A physician who seeks clients through advertising is still persona non grata in the medical profession, unless he incorporates and arranges with a few influential laymen to let their names go on his board of counsellors or something like that, in which case he can go ahead with his advertising campaign and build up a very fine business without audible objection from the profession at large. If I had a few influential laymen at my disposal I'd go into the business myself.

In a folder distributed to the clients in a perfectly ethical corporation specializing in hygiene some interesting inferences are drawn from a study of alleged "colds" among the employees of a great business establishment. The study showed "a very evident relationship between extreme changes in the weather and the prevalence of colds."

Let us see what the evident relationship is.

"For example, a drop in the mean weekly temperature of 10 degrees carried with it an increase of 18 common colds per week in the group studied. Other climatic conditions seem to have no particular influence on the incidence of common colds."

The group studied comprised about 6,700 employees, the folder indicates. And any fool knows how very evident a drop of 10 degrees is. The evidence completely vindicates Salfrey Gamp and Ben Told, doesn't it? Yes, indeed, and lest you fail to appreciate the full significance of it, the folder goes on to say:

"Records with the common observation and should be taken as a warning to meet sudden changes in temperature with discretion and to take reasonable precautions against chilling and exposure."

A good plot for a profane Pilgrim's Progress might be made by capitalizing common observation, warning, sudden changes, reasonable precaution and exposure in the foregoing gem. But wait. You haven't heard the half of it yet. The "cold" logic is here:

"There is little doubt but that certain manifestations of the common cold such as congestion in the head and running at the nose are purely physical reactions due to chilling of the body." So, you see, it would be a mistake to imagine that such manifestations of the common cold are spiritual or mental reactions.

"... purely physical reactions due to chilling of the body. Whether or not such a condition passes over into an infective cold depends on the condition of the individual and probably largely on the type of bacteria that are already present in the nasal cavities and throat."

Houdini ought to investigate this magic. Mrs. Gamp already understands it. Mr. Told does the trick every day and thinks nothing about it. Only Salfrey calls it "turnin' to bronchitis trouble or nummy" and Benjamin calls it "taking more cold."

The tad heaters and their followers will be delighted with this explanation of the "cold" question, for they have always scouted the germ theory, and accounted for the germs in the case as just mental. In this theory, for one example.

This ingenious theory of our incorporated practitioner is built on conjecture, for there is no scientific evidence that germs lurk in the nose or throat to attack when such a "purely physical reaction" occurs. To be sure, bacteria are almost always present in the healthy person's nasal passages and the throat, sometimes virulent disease germs, virulent to guinea pigs or other animals, but we have no ground for the suggestion that such germs are virulent to the individual who carries them; on the contrary, there is more reason to assume that such germs tend to immunize the carrier.

March did come in a-roaring, but with a smile on its face.

A frozen smile, as it were.

As far as Appleton is concerned, it would enjoy hearing the command, "Winter, March!" and "April, Spring!" and see these commands obeyed.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS OF WINTER

Ice, snow, wind, blow, noses red, motor's dead. Pipes frozen, all unclosed. Meters busted, frost encrusted. Chains slipping, all non-gripping. Nights sad, static bad. Lights flicker, eyes weaker. We have heard a lot of things said about March and we believe all of them are true.

World's News Told In Brief, Simple Style

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Having been tipped off that the transport Beaufort was bringing considerable whisky into Norfolk from the West Indies, the navy authorities may not have wanted to raid the ship, but they couldn't get out of it.

When they found the liquor everybody wondered how they were going to avoid punishing the officers who were trying to bring it in. A way was found all right.

As the raiders lugged the 430 captured bottles from their owners' various staterooms, they piled them in one stack on deck, and then forgot which staterooms they came from.

Hence the board of inquiry can't fix responsibility. All the board learned definitely was that it was A-1 whisky, and this wasn't discovered by chemical analysis, either.

In releasing the captured British hooch runner Marjorie Bachman, Federal Judge Morton, Boston, ruled that anti-rum boats mustn't be faster than the vessels they're trying to catch—it isn't fair. That's why the Marjorie's seizure was illegal.

The federal prohibition director of Ohio and several other prominent men are under indictment for breaking the Volstead law.

AVIATION

Admiral Sims, of all navy men perhaps the most militantly up to date, indorses all General Mitchell claims for airplanes but doesn't agree that navies are obsolete—they simply have changed.

The strictly modern battleship has become a plane carrier, he says. Sims opposes a separate air department.

CONGRESS

Nicholas Longworth was elected speaker of the next House of Representatives. A Republican caucus picked him as its candidate, and as the Republicans were in a majority, he won.

PAN-AMERICA

Pan-Americans are all pleased at Frank B. Kellogg's declaration, as incoming secretary of state, in favor of closer relations and more trade with South America, but he probably will have a hard job.

This country's ignorance of South America and its disinclination to learn anything have been the despair, for many years, of everybody who tried to bring the peoples of the two continents closer together.

THE NEAR EAST

The Near East is badly disturbed again. Bulgaria and Turkish Kurdistan, which is along the Persian border, are under martial law. The Bulgars threaten revolution—a communist movement.

Assassinations are numerous. Irregular fighting is going on also with the Serbians and Russians.

Turkey's troubles are due to a rising of the deeply pious Mohammedan Kurds against what they consider the religious over-liberality of Kemal Pasha's government.

GERMANY

President Ebert's death causes a little uneasiness concerning Germany's future.

He was a very able executive, and, considering the blast-trigger state of German affairs, changes have their dangers.

Of 8801 women sent to British prisons last year, more than 7,200 had been convicted before. More than 1,000 had been convicted from 11 to 20 times and 2,886 more than 20 times.

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

WRITER OR SWIMMING CHAMPION?

A minor English novelist made the statement that he would rather swim across the English channel than write a great novel. Whereupon an enterprising magazine asked a number of noted writers whether they felt the same way about it.

Eden Phillpotts administered in his answer a stinging rebuke to the minor novelist whose remark started the fuss. Phillpotts declared that he had been writing fiction for 40 years and that not only would he rather write a great novel than swim the English channel but that he would rather write a great novel than have any honor conferred upon him. He suggested rather than said outright that the minor novelist was posing, that he was insincere, that he was looking for a bit of cheap publicity, or else that he was a fool.

WANT NOTORITY

Phillpotts is an honest, sincere artist who has approached greatness in a number of his novels and that kind of answer might have been expected from him. It is the answer that probably every sincere artist would give to such a question. The person who is merely looking for notoriety is likely to say such things as credited to the minor English novelist. Statements like that attract attention; they are spectacular and that is what persons of that type are after. It is smart to affect to despise the art which they practice and to exalt something that is regarded as more or less trivial. Some time ago another English minor novelist said that he would rather write a great advertisement than a great story. Sounds arresting, but probably this writer too was either lying or else he was a fool.

All writers like Eden Phillpotts, that is all sincere artists, would probably rather write a great novel than win the honor for instance of being elected president of the United States or prime minister of England. They would not merely say this but they would mean it. And there is of course more lasting fame in the authorship of a great book than the mere occupancy of the White house. This statement can easily be tested. What president Monroe to Lincoln has one-tenth the chance to be remembered that Hawthorne has because of the authorship of "The Scarlet Letter" alone. Those presidents loomed much larger in their day than did Hawthorne but the writer of a great book is remembered and the mere occupants of the White house, most of them intellectual mediocrities, are almost forgotten, as they should be. The fame of Lincoln and Washington and perhaps three or four other presidents is greater than that of America's few truly great writers, but none like Hawthorne, Walt Whitman or Edgar Allan Poe will outlive in fame and influence nine out of ten of the great politicians of their day.

CASE OF VALUES

Distinction in literature is of course not necessarily of a higher order than other kinds of distinction but the sincere artist is almost certain to value that type of achievement more than any other. This is so from the very nature of things. If he preferred political honors he would probably have gone after them instead of going after literary laurels. If he would rather be a champion swimmer than a great novelist the chances are that he would have taken to the water as a boy. Whether succeeding or failing, it is probably true that most of us strive for what we most admire or most strongly covet.

An honest man like Phillpotts will admit this but the man who merely wishes to appear clever will pretend that he would rather be a swimmer or a prize-fighter or an advertisement writer or a sea captain or a ward boss than a writer. "I am of course writing for a living," he seems to say, "but I don't take it seriously. I just dash off my stuff and the yokels are lured into paying money for it, but I'd rather be doing anything else. You who are clever like myself understand this."

Ninety-nine per cent rubbish and the rest the talk of a fool. Eden Phillpotts' rebuke was timely and wholesome.

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskins, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Give your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Is there less friction when steel rubs on brass or bronze than steel on steel, when steel is harder? F. J. L.

A. There is much more friction between surfaces of the same metal than between surfaces of different metals.

Q. Has the Government any publications on the raising of foxes and coyotes? L. K. M.

A. The Biological Survey has done a great deal of experimental work along the line of fox raising, but so far as we can ascertain has never been interested in the raising of coyotes. Coyotes as you know are predatory animals and are considered as a menace rather than an asset to the fur industry. A publication giving data on silver fox farming is compiled by the Survey.

Q. Was the body of Marie Antoinette ever buried? C. T. B.

A. The body of Marie Antoinette was placed in a pine coffin and given an obscure burial in a corner of the cemetery of the Church of the Madeleine. Records of the church show an entry which reads, "For the coffin of the widow Capet, 7 francs."

FACULTY STUDIES STUDENT DEMAND FOR MORE DANCES

Heads of College Organizations
Would Revolutionize Social Systems

A more liberal social program for Lawrence college may be the result of the meeting of two committees Thursday afternoon at the request of Dr. William S. Naylor, acting president of Lawrence. One committee was composed of the presidents of the fraternities with representatives from the non-fraternity men in school and the other composed of the presidents of the college societies, including representatives from the town club and the Adolphus. It is understood that recommendations were made which, if they are adopted, will change the present social system radically. They were to be presented to the faculty for action on Friday.

Although no official report has yet been made, reports are that the college presidents advocate at least three all-college dances each quarter, with no dance skips necessary for the college girls on these nights. On the nights of all-college dances, they advocate that the boys at Brookview be given 12:30 hours instead of the usual 11:30, and that control of all dances be placed in the Student Senate.

The girls, it is reported, advocate an all-college dance every Saturday night, and 11:45 hours for girls every Saturday night.

These plans, if adopted by the faculty and Dr. Naylor, would completely revolutionize the present Lawrence social system. In the recent history of the college, there has been but one all-college dance, and that was sponsored by the alumni at the Homecoming celebrations last year. The gymnasium has never been used for college dances.

There also has been some discussion of institution of the honor system, but such a system usually is the result of many years' development and students cannot hope that this may be realized at this time, it was said. Compulsory chapel attendance also is under fire, it is reported.

RESERVATION ROADS WILL BE SURFACED

Motorists Will Find Easy Going
North of Keshena Next
Summer

The Menominee Indian Reservation proved so popular with motorists last summer that an effort will be made to improve its highways during the coming season, construction and maintenance engineers of Division 3, Wisconsin Highway commission announced.

Beginning with little more than Indian trails and a few wagon roads, the highway department has steadily built up the thoroughfares of the reservation until at the present time it has several first-class highways. If money is available next summer, trunk highway No. 47 will be further improved between Neopit and Phlox, a distance of about 10 miles. The improvements will take the form of widening and re-surfacing with gravel, it is said.

Some work will also be done with trunk highway No. 55. This road was under construction last summer, but despite this condition it was well traveled. During the coming season, it will be graded along the 4½ miles left unfinished last year, and the loose sandy places which made going heavy will be surfaced with gravel.

More signs will be erected to designate this route, and all historical places will be marked. The highway provides one of the most beautiful scenic drives in the state, it is said, winding for miles along the east bank of the Wolf river.

The yearly payroll of the federal government was $1,650,000,000 last year, including pensioners.

Standard Time Invented By U.S. Government Clerk

BY HARRY B. HUNT
Washington
"Standard time," that arbitrary division of hours with its fixed zones that enables America to time in accurately on the daily market report and bedtime story and to catch its trains, owes its being to an almost forgotten former employee in the Treasury Department.

This employee worked out his idea of a standardized time on an old watch, nut clock in one of the department offices.

This clock he equipped with six hour hands, of different colors, to record respectively the time on the prime meridian at Greenwich, England, and the time within each of the five "standard" zones, he proposed for the United States—Atlantic, Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific. The old clock, with its varicolored hands, still ticks out the time over in the treasury.

A prowling reported recently "discovered" it there and sought to trace its history. Beyond learning that it was the "daddy" of all standard time clocks, however, his inquiries were futile.

Publication of the story, however, brought about identification of the inventor. An "oldest inhabitant" revealed him as Frank Doremus, a treasury employee with an inventive bent, who died a few years ago while examining inventions at the patent office.

In addition to "standard time," Doremus gave to Uncle Sam the idea of the street-corner letter boxes and himself designed the first of such boxes issued by the Postoffice Department.

A more recent treasury clerk with an inventive mind was C. Francis Jenkins, who is now perfecting a process for transmitting pictures by radio and who is experimenting hopefully with "radio vision."

Jenkins already has transmitted pictures over a considerable distance by radio.

His radio vision, which experts of the United States bureau of Standards Radio Laboratory declare "hold much promise," may enable us in the future to witness any given scene or performance just as today we listen in our homes to radioed sounds.

Jenkins came to the Treasury Department as a clerk, from Richmond Ind.

He decided his inventive bent should either make or break him, and, resigning his job, set seriously to work as a professional inventor.

Probably his most successful invention, financially, was the device by which he took the "flicker" out of moving pictures. That not only brought big royalties to him, but many millions of dollars in increased business to the movies.

FOR TEN YEARS—DEPENDABLE

Exceptional dependability has been a characteristic of Dodge Brothers Motor Car since the day the first of these sturdy cars was marketed.

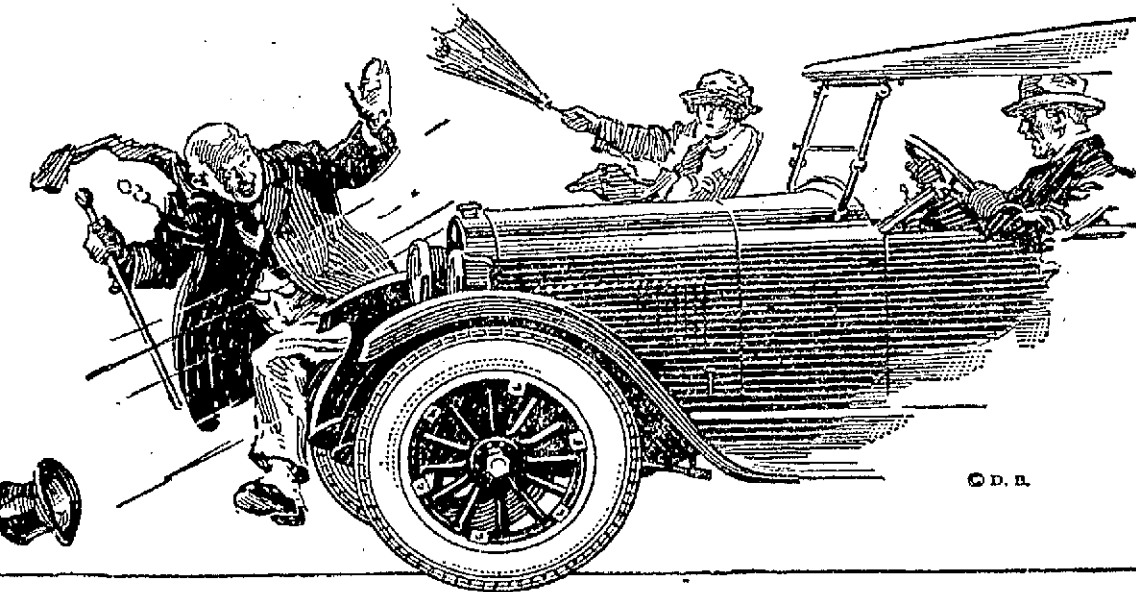

Not once in a decade has it failed to uphold and enhance its reputation for faithful performance.

The reason for its consistent goodness and continued betterment points directly back to the ideals of the founders.

Instead of fluctuating between an endless series of annual models, they determined to concentrate on the perfection of a single chassis.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car today is the embodiment of that ideal—an ideal that will endure as long as the institution itself.

QUEEN MOTHER IN TOUCH WITH WORLD DESPITE HER AGE

Alexandria Receives Invitations to All Court Functions

By Associated Press
London.—Even at her country home in Yorkshire to which she retired a year ago, Queen Alexandra has not lost her touch with the affairs of London with which she has been associated for more than half a century. The hundreds of hostesses who entertain during the season, like the royal family, always remember the Queen Mother and she receives invitations to all affairs just as she did when she lived at Marlborough House, across the park from her son's home.

Whenever a dinner or party is given by anyone whose position allows, an invitation is sent to the Queen Mother, and this is usually followed by a note of regret and an expressed wish that a little account of the affair, with the names of the guests, the dresses and other details be sent to her. When the queen first retired to Sandringham most of her friends made regular trips to visit her, but during the last few months her physician has demanded that she give up the fatigue of these visits and it is now only through the post that she can hear of the neighborhood gossip.

When Queen Alexandra moved into Marlborough House she continued to keep open house for the many members of the royal family who enjoyed the right of entry to the palace under the royal Edward. The custom is still continued at Sandringham and there is hardly a day when some member of the family is not the guest of the Queen Mother.

The king and queen have spent several weeks with her at Sandringham this year, and each of the princes had paid a visit to his grandmother. Recently before the two sons of Princess Mary came to London they were taken to see their great-grandmother, and at the same time were officially introduced to their great-grandmother, the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Dowager Queen Olga of Greece, and their aunt, Princess Victoria, who is her mother's constant companion.

Queen Alexandra, who is eighty years old, still takes a daily walk through her gardens to visit her kennels, for she is an ardent lover of dogs and has no less than 15 pets. Reading the newspapers is also another daily task of the aged queen and she usually supplements it by writing a few letters generally on public matters, for she has never ceased to take an interest in the welfare of the hospitals and children's homes, which she has fostered since she came to England 61 years ago.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schlitz Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. adv.

FACULTY STUDIES STUDENT DEMAND FOR MORE DANCES

Heads of College Organizations
Would Revolutionize Social Systems

A more liberal social program for Lawrence college may be the result of the meeting of two committees Thursday afternoon at the request of Dr. William S. Naylor, acting president of Lawrence. One committee was composed of the presidents of the fraternities with representatives from the non-fraternity school and the other was composed of the presidents of the college societies, including representatives from the town club and the Adelpheis. It is understood that recommendations were made which, if they are adopted, will change the present social system radically. They were to be presented to the faculty for action on Friday.

Although no official report has yet been made, reports are that the college presidents advocate at least three all-college dances each quarter, with no dance skips necessary for the college girls on these nights. On the nights of all-college dances, they advocate that the boys at Brookway be given 12:30 hours instead of the usual 11:30, and that control of all dances be placed in the Student Senate.

The girls, it is reported, advocate an all-college dance every Saturday night, and 11:45 hours for girls every Saturday night.

These plans, if adopted by the faculty and Dr. Naylor, would completely revolutionize the present Lawrence social system. In the recent history of the college, there has been but one all-college dance, and that was sponsored by the alumni at the Homecoming celebrations last year. The gymnasium has never been used for college dances.

There also has been some discussion of institution of the honor system, but such a system usually is the result of many years' development and students cannot hope that this may be realized at this time, it was said. Compulsory chapel attendance also is under fire, it is reported.

Two of the applications are from outside the state, one from Michigan and one from Minnesota.

CITY PAYS $87,000 TO STATE TREASURY

Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, on Monday made his return of the city's quota of state taxes. He turned over to Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, a total of $83,924 in state taxes and $3,076 in special state taxes for penal and charitable institutions. Monday was the last day set by law for the return of state taxes, but several of the local treasurers of the county were a little late. Some remittances are still being received in the mails. It is expected, however, that the last of the state taxes will be in the county treasurer's office before the end of this week.

FORMER APPLETON MAN HEADS DENVER MAILMEN

Peter N. Hodgins, former Appleton man, occupies a place of prominence in postal circles in Denver. He is president of Local 229, National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, and is an editorial writer of "The Postal Worker" magazine published by the Denver postoffice. Last week's issue of the periodical carried a photograph and biography of Mr. Hodgins. He is a brother of Joseph A. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures, and left Appleton shortly before the outbreak of the Spanish-American war in 1898. While in Denver he enlisted and after the war returned to that city to make it his permanent home. He has been engaged as a farmer, teacher, salesman, and while living here he took an active part in politics.

RESERVATION ROADS WILL BE SURFACED

Motorists Will Find Easy Going
North of Keshena Next
Summer

The Menominee Indian Reservation proved so popular with motorists last summer that an effort will be made to improve its highways during the coming season, construction and maintenance engineers of Division 3, Wisconsin Highway commission announced.

Beginning with little more than Indian trails and a few wagon roads, the highway department has steadily built up the thoroughfares of the reservation until at the present time it has several first-class highways. If money is available next summer, trunk highway No. 47 will be further improved between Neopit and Plover, a distance of about 10 miles. The improvements will take the form of widening and resurfacing with gravel, it is said.

Some work will also be done with trunk highway No. 55. This road was under construction last summer, but despite this condition it was well traveled. During the coming season, it will be graded along the 4½ miles left unfinished last year, and the loose sandy places which made going heavy will be surfaced with gravel. More signs will be erected to designate this route, and all historical places will be marked. The highway provides one of the most beautiful scenic drives in the state, it is said, winding for miles along the east bank of the Wolf river.

BUSINESS IS POOR IN MUNICIPAL COURT HERE

Business was poor in the lower branch of municipal court in February, according to the report just issued. There was but one fine, $2, imposed for criminal offenses, and a total of $74 was imposed in fines for violations of Appleton city ordinances. A total of $118.94 was collected in fines and court costs. Judge A. J. Spencer was unable to preside a part of the month on account of illness.

The yearly payroll of the federal government was $1,680,000,000 last year, including pensioners.

Standard Time Invented By U. S. Government Clerk

BY HARRY B. HUNT

Washington — "Standard time," that arbitrary division of hours with its fixed zones that enables America to tune in accurately on the daily market report and bedtime story and to catch its trains, owes its being to an almost forgotten former employee in the Treasury Department.

This employee worked out his idea of a standardized time on an old watch, not clock in one of the department offices.

This clock he equipped with six hour hands, of different colors, to record respectively the time on the prime meridian at Greenwich, England, and the time within each of the five "standard" zones, he proposed for the United States—Atlantic, Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific. The old clock, with its vari-colored hands, still ticks out the time over in the treasury.

A prowling reported recently "discovered" it there and sought to trace its history. Beyond learning that it was the "daddy" of all standard time clocks, however, his inquiries were futile.

Publication of the story, however, brought about identification of the inventor.

An "oldest inhabitant" revealed him as Frank Doremus, a treasury employee with an inventive bent, who died a few years ago while examining inventions at the patent office.

In addition to "standard time," Doremus gave to Uncle Sam the idea of the street-corner letter boxes and himself designed the first of such boxes issued by the Postoffice Department.

A more recent treasury clerk with an inventive mind was C. Francis Jenkins, who is now perfecting a process for transmitting pictures by radio and who is experimenting hopelessly with "radio vision."

Jenkins already has transmitted pictures over a considerable distance by radio.

His radio vision, which experts of the United States bureau of Standard Radio Laboratory declare "hold much promise," may enable us in the future to witness any given scene or performance just as today we listen in our homes to radioed sounds.

Jenkins came to the Treasury Department as a clerk, from Richmond, Ind.

He decided his inventive bent should either make or break him, and, resigning his job, set seriously to work as a professional inventor.

Probably his most successful invention, financially, was the device by which he took the "flicker" out of moving pictures. That not only brought big royalties to him, but many millions of dollars in increased business to the movies.

FOR TEN YEARS—DEPENDABLE

Exceptional dependability has been a characteristic of Dodge Brothers Motor Car since the day the first of these sturdy cars was marketed.

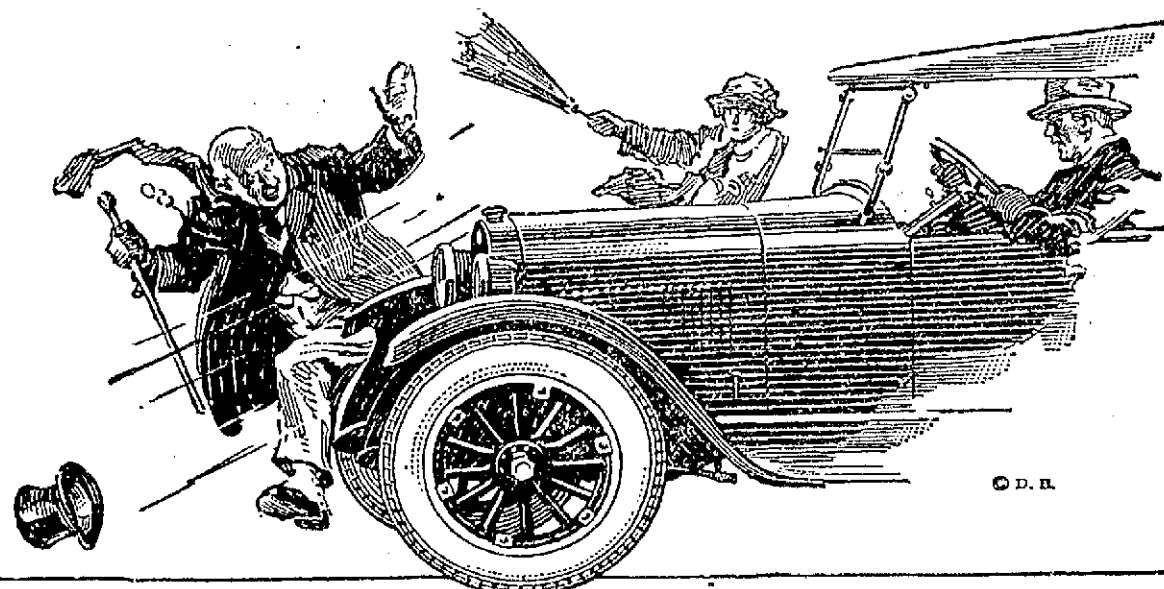

Not once in a decade has it failed to uphold and enhance its reputation for faithful performance.

The reason for its consistent goodness and continued betterment points directly back to the ideals of the founders.

Instead of fluctuating between an endless series of annual models, they determined to concentrate on the perfection of a single chassis.

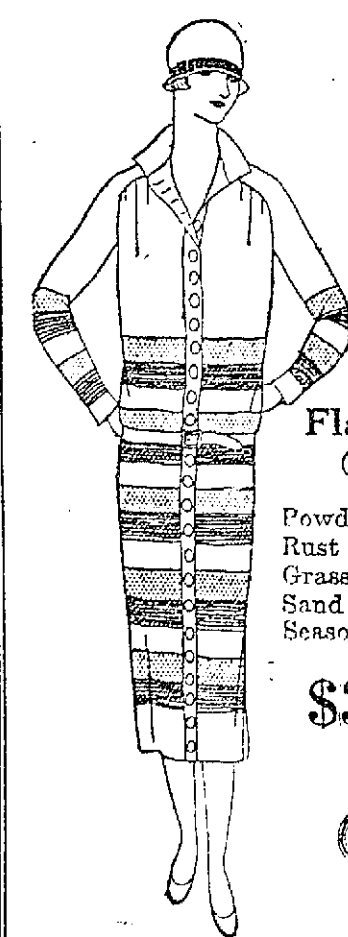

Dodge Brothers Motor Car today is the embodiment of that ideal—an ideal that will endure as long as the institution itself.

QUEEN MOTHER IN TOUCH WITH WORLD DESPITE HER AGE

Alexandria Receives Invitations to All Court Functions

By Associated Press

London—Even at her country home in Yorkshire to which she retired a year ago, Queen Alexandra has not lost her touch with the affairs of London with which she has been associated for more than half a century. The hundreds of hostesses who entertain during the season, like the royal family, always remember the Queen Mother and she receives invitations to all affairs just as she did when she lived at Marlborough House, across the park from her son's home.

Whenever a dinner or party is given by anyone whose position allows, an invitation is sent to the Queen Mother, and this is usually followed by a note of regret and an expressed wish that a little account of the affair, with the names of the guests, the dresses and other details be sent to her. When the queen first retired to Sandringham most of her friends made regular trips to visit her, but during the last few months her physician has demanded that she give up the fatigue of these visits and it is now only through the post that she can hear of the neighborhood gossip.

When Queen Alexandra moved into Marlborough House she continued to keep open house for the many members of the royal family who enjoyed the right of entry to the palace under the genial Edward. The custom is still continued at Sandringham and there is hardly a day when some member of the family is not the guest of the Queen Mother.

The king and queen have spent several weeks with her at Sandringham this year, and each of the princes had paid a visit to his grandmother. Recently before the two sons of Princess Mary came to London they were taken to see their great-grandmother, and at the same time were officially introduced to their great-grandmother, the Dowager Empress of Russia, the Dowager Queen Olga of Greece, and their aunt, Princess Victoria, who is her mother's constant companion.

Queen Alexandra, who is eighty years old, still takes a daily walk through her gardens to visit her kennels, for she is an ardent lover of dogs and has no less than 15 pets. Reading the newspapers is also another daily task of the aged queen and she usually supplements it by writing a few letters generally on public matters, for she has never ceased to take an interest in the welfare of the hospitals and children's homes, which she has fostered since she came to England 61 years ago.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside
External treatments seldom cure Piles.
Nor do surgical operations.
The cause is inside—bad circulation.
The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.
The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.
To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.
J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1,000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schintz Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. adv.

WILL TRY AGAIN TO INTEREST KAUKAUNA IN BACKING SCOUTS

Keicher Explains Scout Movement to Small Group of Men

Kaukauna—The second attempt to organize a local committee for Boy Scout work in this city failed Thursday evening when a meeting in the council chambers was poorly attended. Only five representatives of the organizations were present. In spite of the attendance, plans were made for promoting scouting in Kaukauna. The names of men in local organizations and churches were secured and will be asked to attend another meeting on Thursday, March 19, when it is hoped attendance will be sufficient to start the local organization.

P. O. Keicher of Appleton, Valley Scout executive, was present Thursday evening and explained the present existing situation. He said Kaukauna now is the weak link in the valley council. He told how it is the plan of scout headquarters to bring all scouting under councils such as is being formed in this valley.

"Kaukauna should start from 150 to 200 Boy Scouts to start with," Mr. Keicher stated. "You have at present one troop which has managed to keep going and that is nominally a Methodist troop. One more Protestant boys' troop should be organized and troops also ought to be formed in each of the local Catholic parishes."

The reason for the failure of scouting in this section, Mr. Keicher stated, has been due to the fact that no aggressive program has been arranged to keep the boys busy. They were not able to progress as they desired and had nothing to look forward to.

With the local committee formed and a court of honor set up and men provided who will spend a little time with the boys, scouting immediately takes on a new meaning. If a scout is required to appear before a court of honor and possibly before spectators, to take his tests, he is more likely to realize the work is not merely pass time, Mr. Keicher said.

In answer to a question, Mr. Keicher stated Boy Scouting is not a military organization as so many parents believe. The uniform is not required but is used merely to distinguish the scout from the non-scouts. A uniform furnishes a neat appearance when a group of scouts appear on parade. Drilling is practiced only as a part of the program to keep the boys learning new things. The work does not require knowledge of a manual of arms nor are arms used for drill, the speaker explained.

The men present and the organizations they represented were N. M. Haupt, Elks; Dr. E. J. Bollinske and P. R. McGinnis, Rotary club; L. F. Nelson, Knights of Columbus; G. E. Jacobson, Trades and Labor council; A. E. Wagnitz, American legion.

MISSED SUPPER AT CITY HALL AND HOME

Kaukauna—A number of prominent business men of this city were considerably inconvenienced and very much "put out" about supper time Wednesday evening when they rushed to the municipal building after business hours to partake of the supper which was to have been served preceding the regular meeting of the Advancement association. It had been announced the day before that a meeting was to take place and the announcement was printed on information received from F. W. Grogan, president.

On Wednesday morning the meeting was called off because a report on the mid-winter fair was not yet completed and only a few of the members were informed of the change in plans.

The meeting will be held next Wednesday evening and the usual supper will precede the meeting, according to the president.

Democrats Aim Brickbats At Coolidge Economy Claim

BY HARRY B. HUNT
Washington, D. C.—An important part of Democratic activity during the next two years will consist in "keeping the record straight" with respect to various and sundry claims of "Republican accomplishment."

The party of the "ins" naturally and necessarily broadcasts to the nation the news of every move which promises to hold old votes or get new votes at the next election.

And the party of the "outs," if it is to stand any show whatever of getting back into power must be constantly on guard to expose and puncture all claims that are not 100 per cent puncture-proof fact.

Already it is apparent that the G. O. P. bulwark in the campaigns of '26 and '28 is to be the party's record on economy.

And as this broadcast is being built, dollar by dollar, in the record of money saved or expenses reduced, Democratic scouts are scrutinizing and analyzing each inch of its construction to locate weak spots or false work that may weaken its defense when the time for the next campaign offensive arrives.

Chief among the Democratic statistical experts who will check Republican economy claims in the hope of finding weak spots to attack is Corbett H. Hall, ex-national chairman, and for 16 years member of Congress from Carthage, Tenn.

As a rood Democratic Tennessee sharpshooter, Hall has drawn a bead on the recent economy claims of President Coolidge and Budget Director Lord.

He thinks these are vulnerable and already has taken a shot or two at what he thinks are weak spots.

One item alone, of $736,711,000, or close to half of the total saving claimed by the G. O. P. for the year 1922, Hall claims is merely camouflage, not a "saving" in the real sense of the term at all.

"The big catch in the favorite Republican 'economy figures,'" says Hall "was disclosed by President Coolidge and General Lord on Jan. 26. President Coolidge said on that occasion: 'In the fiscal year 1921 we spent $5,538,000,000. It is estimated we will spend this fiscal year $5,534,000,000. This will show a net reduction in our expenditures of $2,004,000,000.'

"General Lord said on the same occasion: 'Federal expenditures in 1921 were $5,118,927,689 30.'

"This is the sort of hopelessly confusing information being broadcast over radio by the highest government officials.

"Both President Coolidge and General Lord, carefully omitting the slight reductions for 1923 and 1924, rely almost solely on the single reduction of $1,700,000,000 in 1922 as

STAGE And SCREEN

MARRIED FLIRTS

"Married Flirts" a screen production of the Louis Joseph Vance novel "Mrs. Paravor," which is showing at the Bute for the last time tonight, was made at the same time the novel was published. In fact, the picture was released and came out simultaneously with the book.

Robert G. Vagnola directed the film production, which tells a smart, brilliantly cynical story of the ultra-modern restless, half-idle social set. The complications, which are many, are said to be handled with great ingenuity.

Pauline Frederick plays the title role. Conrad Nagel appears as Percy Rex; Mae Busch is cast as Jill Vetherell and Huntley Gordon as Pen Wayne. Patterson Dial and Paul Nicholson also have two important parts.

This is the first of a series of productions to be made by Robert Vignola for Metro-Goldwyn. Julia Crawford Ivers made the film adaptation. It is a Louis B. Mayer presentation.

CLAIRE WINDSOR HEROINE IN "THE DIXIE HANDICAP"

In "The Dixie Handicap" Claire Windsor makes her first appearance at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio since returning from Africa, where she had the leading role in "A Son of the Sahara." Incidentally, it is her first picture under the new film combine. Before the merger Miss Windsor made "The Stranger's Banquet" and "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model" for Goldwyn.

"The Dixie Handicap" is a screen version of Gerald Beaumont's Red Book Magazine story which was adapted by Reginald Barker. It is coming to the Elite theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

One of the finest casts that have ever appeared in a Swanson picture supports Gloria in "Manhandled," her latest Paramount production, directed by Allan Dwan, the man who made "Robin Hood," "Zaza" and "A Society Scandal."

Tom Moore, last seen in "Big Brother," also made by Mr. Dwan, has the leading man's role opposite the popular star. Moore has the role of an automobile mechanic, who drives a taxi at night. Then there's Frank Morgan, well known stage actor, and Lilyan Tashman, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, who is one of the salesgirls in the department store where Gloria, as Tessie McLean, works. Paul McAllister, who played in "You Can't Fool Your Wife" and others, also has a prominent part as has Ian Keith, well known in New York for his work on the legitimate stage. Others in the cast include Frank Allworth, Carrie Scott, popular vaudeville comedienne, and Arthur Housman.

Then, as the enterprising exhibitor would say, there's a big extra added attraction—Brooke Johns and Ann Pennington doing their stuff before the camera. There's an attraction in itself. And it's not just a flash of the popular Follies entertainers you get either. They have regular parts in the picture in a house party sequence.

"Manhandled" declared by all who have seen it as the best thing Miss Swanson has ever done for the screen comes to the Appleton Theater next Monday and Tuesday.

Don't miss it! We just know you won't.

HELP FOR NERVOUS WOMEN

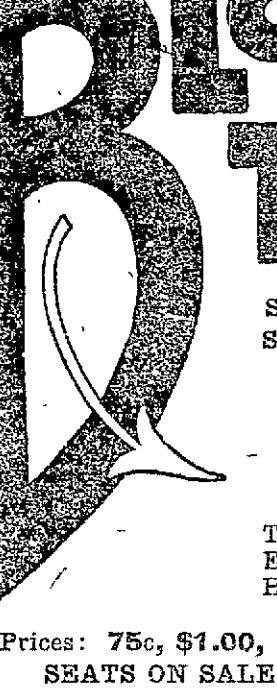

It has often been said that only a woman can understand what nervous women endure. Most cases of nervousness, sleeplessness, mental depression, headaches, backache, fretting and worrying have their origin in some female ailment that will readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a simple remedy made from roots and herbs, which for over forty years has been restoring women of America to health and strength. Merit alone could have stood such a test.

REO SALES MANAGER SEES BUYING TREND IN UNUSUAL DEMAND

Experience With New Sedan Shows Public Is Receptive Now

Basine the prediction on his recent experience in introducing and marketing the new Reo Twentieth Anniversary Sedan, R. C. Rueschaw, sales manager of the Reo Motor Car Company, forecasted a very active period of motor car buying.
An unusual demand was the immediate result of the announcement of the Twentieth Anniversary Sedan, and while a large part of this early popularity was undoubtedly due to the exceptional value offered, the Reo sales head attributes a full share of credit to the buying trend which he believes is just beginning to become evident again.
"Although it is generally accepted that in this new, four-door, full-sized sedan, priced at the cost of an open car, the Reo Motor Car Company is giving an unprecedented value, a part of the keen demand for the model is due to the tendency on the part of the general public to become active buyers once more," says Mr. Rueschaw.
"This I do not mean to say that the model would not have enjoyed a gratifying popularity without the impetus given by this tendency to buy; but the demand has been so much greater than anything we anticipated, that we are ready to offer our experience in proof of the prediction that we are entering a period of greater buying.
"It is no more than natural that such a period should follow events and conditions of the past eight or ten months. In the first place, farm prosperity is, now a reality—farm prosperity, that is, in the sense that the farmer has been able to wipe out his obligations or reduce them so materially that he has gained a substantial increase in credit and purchasing power.
"It has been clearly demonstrated time and time again that when the farmer can loosen his pursestrings, the city dweller is proportionately able to increase the scope of his buying. And so, with farm prosperity realized to an appreciable degree, we could naturally look for increased sales, both to the farmer himself, and to the people in the cities.
"Then there is the reaction that always follows a presidential election. We might debate until doomsday the question of whether or not there is any cause for financial inactivity before every presidential election, but the fact would remain that every four years we have it.
"It is logical to expect, though, that when we have a period during which business approaches a standstill, there will be a reaction to bring the average to its proper height. Undoubtedly, we are seeing the first of this reaction at the present time.
"Having these two distinct reasons for anticipating such an upward trend and our experience with the Twentieth Anniversary Sedan as a further basis for such a prediction, it seems a very conservative forecast to make. Further substantiation comes from recent Speed Wagon sales.
"Ever since its introduction, late in 1914, the Speed Wagon has been selling at a comparatively even pace. Because of its adaptability to all kinds of business, it has not been a seasonal product, and because it has held unquestioned leadership in its class, it has never known a serious depression.
"However, the demand for the Speed Wagon in all of its various body types is now on the increase. The same thing is true for the Reo six cylinder buses, Sedan and Pay-Enter types, and the other models in the passenger car line. All of this activity makes us quite confident that we are on the right track in predicting a period of increased buying.
"The public will buy, and in increased quantities; but it will also insist on full value for its money. The days of buying with eyes closed just for the sake of buying have been gone for some time, and they are not apt to return in a hurry.

OWNER BENEFITS BY ONE DESIGN

Engineer Cites Advantages of Improvements Without Yearly Model

The wisdom of Dodge Brothers policy of constantly developing one basic design instead of bringing out a new model every year, is borne out emphatically in several ways, in the opinion of Russell Huff, director of engineering. Mr. Huff is also a member of the board of directors of Dodge Brothers.
"The best evidence, of course, is the quality of Dodge Brothers' present product and the pronounced satisfaction of our one and a quarter million owners.
"Even the layman can understand how much better it is for the engineering department, for example, to be concentrating all its time and thought on the refinement of one chassis and one fundamental design, than to experiment continuously with something new for each year.
"There is always the factor of depreciation. If you buy a car in July and your manufacturer brings out an entirely different car in August, what happens to the valuation of your car?
"Oh, that's a last year's model," is exactly what you get wherever you propose to sell it. And the valuations slump accordingly.
"So the buyer loses in two ways. He pays the extra price for the support of the model-year policy, and he also pays again when his car is relegated into obsolescence by the appearance of a new model.
"Everyone concedes that the resale value of Dodge Brothers motor car is unusually high. Used car dealers are always anxious to have them in stock. There are times when they cannot be bought.
"This is largely due, of course, to the car's exceptional stamin. It has the reputation of giving good service over a long period of years. But it is also true that people know it will not be radically different tomorrow that it is today and therefore they buy without fear of an abnormal overnight depreciation.

BUICK HAS GAINED LEADERSHIP DURING PAST TWO DECADES

"Be Sure You Are Right, Then Go Ahead," Is Firm's Motto

"Be sure you are right, then go ahead" was taken as a policy by the founders of the Buick Motor Company 30 years ago. As a result Buick was not the first car to made commercially, but during the past two decades has attained a leadership that has been undisputed.
While actual records of the dates various automobiles were first placed on paper are not available, it is safe to say that Buick was among the pioneers. In 1895, just 30 years ago, work of drafting plans for a Buick car first started.
Two years previous to this date—in 1893—the Buick Manufacturing Company started building stationary and marine gas engines in a little building in Detroit. The "horseless carriage" was being mentioned as a possibility and the officers of the Buick Manufacturing concern believed that their Valve-in-Head marine engine would be ideal motive power for a self-propelled wagon.
For nine years experiments were made before the Buick pioneers were satisfied they were right. Their opinion, however, was not shared by Detroit bankers who considered an investment in a Buick automobile company was akin to buying green goods. Progressive Flint bankers and businessmen, however, thought differently and in 1903 the Buick Motor Company was incorporated and started, operations in Flint, the first experimental car being completed in December of that year.
The "bug" in this experimental car was killed, and production was started. The first car to be sold was completed in July, 1904, and delivered to the first Buick purchaser, a Flint physician.
The first Buick factory was a new, one-story brick structure near the plant of the Flint Wagon Works, which company made the bodies. One hundred employees were kept hustling in the little plant and during the last half of 1904, the marvelous production of 37 Buicks was accomplished.
In contrast, the present Buick plant covers an area more than a mile in length and from two to four blocks in width. Its four assembly lines have frequently turned out 1,000 finished cars daily.
Lincoln manufacturing standards exact for individual inspection every thing that goes into the construction of the car. In one room, every ball bearing or roller bearing which goes into the building of the Lincoln is actually run at high speed and listened to with a delicate instrument to detect the slightest roughness which might produce noise.

There are 6,500 mechanical operations in the Lincoln car which are accurate to 1-1000 of an inch, one-third the thickness of a human hair. Many measurements are not permitted to deviate more than 1-10,000 of an inch.

MANY PRODUCTS GO INTO BUILDING OF AUTOMOBILE TIRES

Infinitesimal Amount of Skill Also Is Required to Make Good Shoes

Many of the earth's products besides an infinitesimal amount of skill go into the building of tires, or as so many motorists prefer to consider them, "tire miles." Properly constructed tires, conforming to the best engineering knowledge based on long observation and careful research, are really one of the reasons for the tremendous advance of the automotive industry during the past ten years.
To the automobile driver who quickly puts a tire on his automobile, "shoes" means service and he usually fails to realize the infinite care and study that has gone to give him a product which will produce thousands of tire miles. Every step in the process of tire making, from the plantation where the raw rubber is gathered, to the careful selection of just the proper kind of cotton, the choice of chemicals in correct proportion, the pigments, sulphur and lamp black, is scrutinized with minute care.
The strength and texture of the cotton, the nature of the cotton thread and the manner of weaving it into the tire carcass are matters, according to Miller engineers, which engage the attention of the experts. These matters are of importance because, in the detail of tire making, are involved all of the principles which determine whether a tire is to give many miles of service or whether it is to wear out quickly.
The rubber compound, which makes the tread, a product representing years of experimentation that have not ended yet. The relation of each part of the tire to the other parts is of importance in order that each will be made as strong as is necessary and yet not so heavy that it will either be bulky or out of proportion to the other parts.
While the tread is apparently the part of the tire which gets the wear, it does not have the main part of the carcass has, because it is on the carcass that all of the flexing pressures are carried and it is in the carcass where the cotton cords do their work. In the course of ten thousand miles travel the cord carcasses must flex millions of times in order that the tire will function properly.

EUROPE DISLIKES SOMBRE COLOR OF CARS IN AMERICA

Visitors Contend Black Gives Autos a Funeral Appearance

The sombre black finish of American automobiles which has been standard on practically all but the very high priced cars until recent years has been criticized time and again by Europeans.
These visitors to our shores contended that black gave our cars a funeral appearance. There was no color as symbolized by the various glowing tints of the rainbow, and consequently a procession of American cars had the sameness of so many peas in a pod.
The reason for this American practice was really rather obvious. It was more costly to produce cars in colors other than black and, furthermore, coloring other than black was more liable to show nicks, scratches, and the wear and tear of rain, sun, mud and dust.
But an insistent demand for more distinctive coloring is gradually bringing about more colorful cars, and the introduction of Duco finish—which is practically impervious to climatic conditions and may be repaired, in case of mar, by simply spraying over the damaged part—has practically eliminated the second objection to bright-colored coloring.
Not few expected that the low priced cars could afford to standardize on colors other than black and on Duco finish. For this reason, the announcement of the new Chevrolets in both Duco finish and in colors other than black has created a sensation in the low price field.
The Chevrolet Touring, Roadster and Coach are finished in a rich dark blue. The sedan is finished in aqua marine blue with upper panels in black, while the coupe is finished in sage green for the lower panels and hood, and black for the upper panels. Fenders on all the models are in black.
The Duco finish gives the cars a deep, rich gloss which retains its life and lustre and, unlike the previous finish on motor cars, grows brighter with age and polishing. Duco finish more than any other kind, withstands marbling. In case of marbling through accident, however, it is not necessary to finish the entire body panel because the damaged section alone can be quickly repaired with Duco.
Thus, for the first time in the low priced field, automotive purchasers can obtain a car that is not only distinctive in appearance, but has an almost indestructible finish.

"That's because the thermostat is working," the man explained as he entered the driver's seat.

PROMISE BETTER FORDS FOR 1925

Prospective purchasers also will find that the Ford arrives in 1925 a materially improved automobile.

Aside from better appearance in the bodies, mechanical improvements affecting smoother motor operation have been developed recently and incorporated in the cars.
For one thing, new and lighter weight pistons have been adopted, lessening vibration in the motor and reducing gasoline consumption. The new lightweight cast iron pistons are now standard and the change in design has reduced the weight of the pistons to about 1-4 pounds, or slightly more than a quarter of a pound less than the old pistons.
A change in the camshaft also has been made which aids in reducing vibration and adds to the quietness of the motor.
Another improvement is the new crankcase. It is stronger, larger in proportions and the oil pan is sufficiently large to permit easy access to the rear main bearing, a feature lacking in the crank case formerly in use.
All the changes have been made within the last few months and are now effective in all Ford production. This is in line with the company's long established policy to incorporate improvements as rapidly as they are developed by the Ford engineers so that car purchasers may begin to benefit from them as quickly as possible.

RECORD INCREASE IN MAXWELL SALES

Maxwell-Chrysler Corporation Gained 72.5 Per Cent Over Last Year

With the largest retail sales for a single week in this season, the year recorded in Maxwell-Chrysler history, officials of the company are convinced that their two products are well started on the way to a banner year.
The record week, ending Feb. 21st, showed a gain in Maxwell sales over the same week last year of 72.5 per cent, while the increase over the preceding week was 44.2 per cent. Chrysler sales gained more than 45 per cent over the week ending Feb. 14th. Although the views of business prognosticators held the belief that 1925 was to be an excellent and per-

WILLARD BATTERY SILENT PARTNER IN MOVING TOWN

All Houses and Commercial Buildings Carried Eleven Miles

Considerable interest has been displayed in the last year over the widely heralded project of removing the towns of Jennings, Mich., to Cadillac, Mich., some eleven miles distant.
All the houses and commercial buildings, including a church were moved by motor truck and trailer over the eleven miles of roads separating these towns.
Jennings was a town of about 1,200 inhabitants practically all dependent on a lumber company in the vicinity for livelihood. When this company found it necessary to move to Cadillac, it also took the responsibility of moving its employees' homes to that town. More than a hundred houses were moved on a specially designed trailer drawn by Acme motor trucks, besides the store buildings and church.
This project was one of the most amazing performances motor trucks have yet been called upon to do. The Acme trucks which accomplished the projects were equipped with Willard batteries, which performed faithfully under the cruel grind they were put to in successfully completing the removal of the town.

happened a record year for the motor car, the gains made by Maxwell-Chrysler to date are far above the automobile sales curve as charted for the entire industry. This is not based upon production records at the factories but upon actual retail deliveries as telegraphically reported by the dealers in every section.
The Maxwell-Chrysler group was generally expected in the trade to hang up high marks this year for the industry to shoot at, but this early assault upon the market especially indicates a tremendous year. Unsettled weather conditions have been an obstacle to extensive sales operations on the part of the dealer organization and the full force of Maxwell-Chrysler influence upon the buyer certainly has yet an enormous power in reserve.
J. E. Fields, vice-president in charge of sales of the Maxwell-Chrysler companies, is of the opinion that the business done by the two cars in 1925 will exceed by at least 50 per cent, the

MOTOR INDUSTRY HAS WIDE FIELD FOR EXPANSION

Oldsmobile Sales Manager Refers to South American Countries

Regardless of any so-called saturation point or traffic congestion problems in this country, the automobile industry still has a wide field in which to expand, and this field is South America, according to Guy H. Peasley, sales manager of Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich.
"From present indications South American countries will rank second only to the United States in the number of automobiles per capita," said Mr. Peasley. "In no part of the world is there more activity and enthusiasm regarding things automotive than can be found in the chief South American countries. Recently they sent a delegation here to study road building and they are doing everything within their power to foster the use of the automobile.
"Another recent affair which indicates the interest evoked by the automobile was an endurance run made under the direction of Cassio, Muniz & Company, Oldsmobile distributors in Sao Paulo, Brazil. The run was a 1,000 kilometer drive in high gear (all other gears having been removed from the transmission) from Sao Paulo to Araraquara—somewhat similar to the trans-continental run made more than a year ago by Cannon-Ball Baker in an Oldsmobile in this country. There was this difference, the Brazilian run was 'over some of the worst roads in the world,' to quote a Sao Paulo newspaper's account of the successful trip.
"To those of us in this country who are accustomed to automobiles performing almost impossible feats, the run in itself was no greater test or more thrilling than some conducted in this country. But the attitude of the South Americans toward the test was highly illustrative of the attitude of those people toward the automobile.

volume of last year. "We have every reason to believe," said Mr. Fields, "that our sales will top by more than half our record volume of 1924. The motor buying public appreciates the extraordinary values offered to them in Maxwell and Chrysler cars. The early demand, despite inclement weather proves this."

CITY STILL RUNS SCHOOLS UNDER OLD CHARTER

ATTORNEY GENERAL SAYS COURTS HAVE PASSED ON PROBLEM

Writer of Opinion Thinks Appleton Still Has Commission Government

That Appleton is still operating under the special city charter as far as the administration of schools is concerned and that according to the charter the election of a city superintendent of schools last January was illegal was brought out in the written opinion handed down by T. L. McIntosh, assistant attorney general.

The opinion was requested by the board of education of the attorney general through John Callahan, state superintendent of schools. A copy of the opinion was transferred by Mr. Callahan Wednesday to A. C. Blosser, city attorney.

The decision affirms the opinion handed down a month ago by Mr. Blosser, and cities court cases which have a bearing on the Appleton situation. The assistant attorney general however, was under the wrong impression as to the status of the Appleton city government, for he frequently speaks of the commission form of government which he believes to be in operation here.

OLD CHARTER EFFECTIVE

While the state official confuses the forms of government, he points out that under a court decision the board of education in Superior was made to comply with the educational provisions set forth in the old special charter, even after that city adopted the commission form of government.

"I think you have to go back to the old special charter of the city of Appleton," he concludes, "to find out when the board members are to be appointed and when and how their duties are to be performed in the selection of a city superintendent of schools."

"Section 4, Chapter 441, laws of 1885, which contains the portion of the Appleton city charter, relevant to your inquiry provides that the board shall: 'Elect annually at a regular meeting in June a city superintendent of schools.' It therefore appears that the election of a superintendent in January was illegal. Your question is therefore answered in the negative."

CARDINAL CLUB BOYS PREPARE FOR BANQUET

Laurence Larson, freshman at Lawrence college, lead the Cardinal club at the regular meeting Thursday evening because of the illness of Kenneth Wallace, newly appointed leader. Plans were made for a banquet on Thursday March 18 and a committee consisting of Eugene Smith, chairman, Sydney Shannon and Michael Goehnauer, was appointed to make arrangements for the affair. Plans for a club track meet in the future were made and an athletic committee consisting of Howard Ellis, chairman, Robert Campshire and Melvin Bartz was put in charge of the competition. The Pioneer emblem which will be awarded on May 1 to members making 700 points or more in their tests at that time was on display. The regular discussion concluded the meeting.

REMODEL STILP BUILDING FOR PLUMBING SHOP

The building at 427 W. Collegeave recently purchased by Rheinhardt Wenzel from John Stilp, cigar maker is being prepared for occupancy by Mr. Wenzel in the near future. Mr. Wenzel who conducted a plumbing and heating establishment on N. Appleton at for many years, will go into business again in the new location.

TRINITY ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH WILL BE DEDICATED SUNDAY MORNING

SUNDAY will be a day of supreme importance to Trinity English Evangelical Lutheran church, for that is the day the new church edifice will be dedicated. It will mark the first of a series of services and festive gatherings scheduled for next week.

Impressive services have been arranged by the pastor, the Rev. F. L. Schreckenberg, for Sunday morning, afternoon and evening. Speakers of prominence in Lutheran church circles have been engaged for the occasion. Following the dedication services, the congregation will observe Student night on Tuesday and Community night on Thursday. Special music will be provided for all services and meetings.

ONE OF FINEST

The church, located opposite the vocational school at S. Allen and E. Kimball-st., is said to be one of the finest of the English Synod of the Northwest. It was completed a few months after having been in construction for about a year. The finishing touches on the interior were made within the last few weeks.

Dedicatory services Sunday will begin with morning worship at 10 o'clock, which is one-half earlier than the regular Sunday service. The dedicatory sermon will be preached by the Rev. W. C. Miller, of St. Mathew church, Chicago. Dr. E. T. Kraus, of the Chicago Lutheran seminary will preach the dedicatory sermon for the pipe organ in the afternoon service starting at 3 o'clock.

In the evening service beginning at 7:30 the speaker will be the Rev. B. J. Stecker, Fond du Lac, field minister for Northern Wisconsin. The Rev. Mr. Stecker served the congregation at the time it was organized ten years ago when he was attending Lawrence college.

For Tuesday evening Student night the Rev. J. F. Pedders of Lake Park church, Milwaukee, has been engaged as speaker. Students of Lawrence college have been invited to this service. Community night will be observed Thursday with the Rev. Paul R. Siebert, Reform church, Milwaukee, as speaker.

DEDICATE ORGAN

Mrs. A. R. Eads will preside at the new pipe organ Sunday, and the augmented choir will appear for the first time in vestments, the women members wearing a black gown, white collar and black board cap, the men wearing a black gown without the white collar. The members are the Misses Anita Warner, Laurence Larson, Margaret Ellen, Ethelyn Knuth, Dorothy Warner, Hattie Luebben, Agnes Jansen, sopranos, Miss Edith Eckman, Mrs. Albert Roehl, Mrs. F. L. Schreckenberg, altos, Edward Kuehler, George McElroy, tenors, Albert Schreder, William Durdell, Lyle Westberg, Lester Koeding, Edward Ellen and Harold Eggert basses.

The service will begin with the processional and close with the recessional by the choir. Miss Anita Warner will sing a solo and Miss Margaret Melhinch will play a violin selection at the opening and also the offertory. In the afternoon service the vested choir of St. Paul church, Neenah, will lead the singing. The Rev. J. Richard Olson, New London, and Miss Virroqua Vockrodt, Oshkosh, will sing a baritone and soprano duet. In the evening Trinity choir will sing an anthem and Miss Eckman will sing a solo.

Special music also will be provided for the services in the middle of the week. On Sunday meals will be served in the church both at noon and in the evening.

The building to be dedicated is designed in the English Gothic period patterned after the English country side church, with low walls and high roof. The exterior is built of Eden stone in rock random range, selected being made of the more colorful types of stone from the quarry H. C. Hauser, Milwaukee, was the architect, and Greunke Brothers, Appleton, were the general contractors.

PARSONAGE INCLUDED

Included in the building project was the parsonage built as a unit with the church, the two forming an angle on the corner lot. A stone tower with copper spire and containing a bell is the connecting link between the parsonage and church. The parsonage contains nine rooms has a study with access from both the church tower entrance and the front door of the parsonage. It also connects with the church vestry.

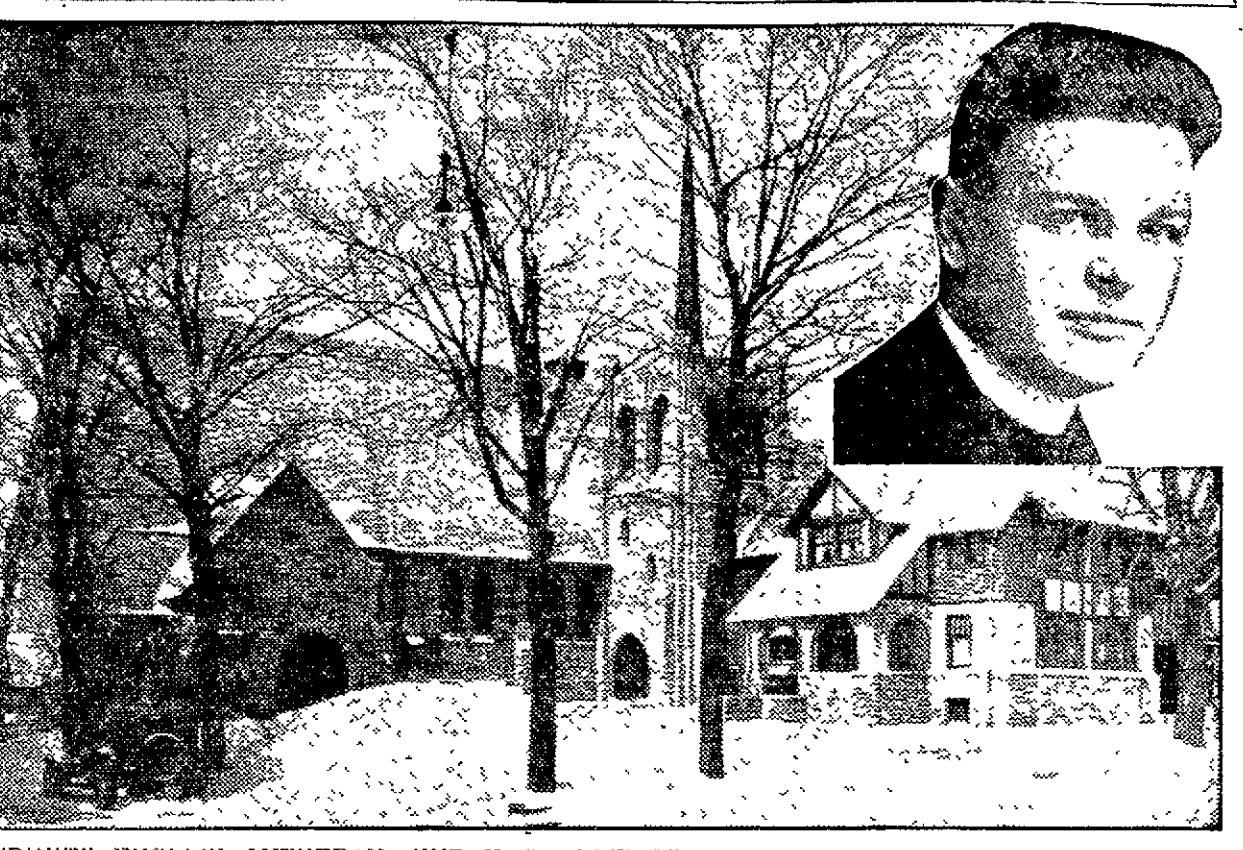

Two entrances are provided for the church auditorium one through the tower which also leads into the Sunday school and social rooms, the other in the south end vestibule which also connects with the basement. A third entrance at the southwest corner connects with the basement auditorium direct.

The first story auditorium has a seating capacity of 500 and has an inclined floor. The choir loft organ loft, chancel and vestibules do not take off any space from the auditorium. The chancel with the altar and baptismal font is located in the north end of the building while the choir and organ console have a place in the west transept gable.

The ceiling is in the form of a large Gothic arch. The plaster throughout is of the rough hand wrought type and is enriched by the insertion of colored tiles set in plaster to form bands extending across the ceiling and terminating in chancel sculpture. The bands of the chancel arch terminate in niches.

MARBLE ALTAR

One of the most beautiful pieces of church furniture in building is the cream marble altar set in with mosaic. It is the gift of Arthur Stramsland. The baptismal font not yet completed will be of similar material and design. A high oak wainscoted paneled and carved forms a background for the entire chancel space. The floor of the chancel of space with colored border. The pulpit is of oak.

On the east side of the church auditorium in the tower is the organ loft the pipes being concealed by cream grill work and blue silk screen. Separated from the organ is the organ console in the choir recess in the west side of the building. The music is controlled by electric pneumatic touch from two manual console.

The organ was manufactured by the well known Estey company of Brattleboro, Vt., and is unusually sweet in tone, the diapason and reedless oboe stops attracting special attention. It was donated by the Woman's Missionary society.

The pews, manufactured by the American Seating company, are of five-play workmanship, rather than veneer, designed with doubled curve seat and back after the principle of school furniture but retaining the Gothic church appearance.

SPLENDID WINDOWS

Special attention has been given the art glass windows. All bear a series of scriptural and traditional symbols, selected by the pastor. The windows portray the creation, the deluge, the lawgiving, Calvary, the cross and crown, the anchor, the Church, Alpha and Omega, the Rose of Sharon, the Lily and the vine and the four evangelists. Over the altar the subject, "The Good Shepherd," is embodied in a group of three stained glass windows. The windows in the choir have musical symbols and Luther's coat of arms.

A special feature in the interior of and sub-auditorium, is the method of lighting, which is accomplished by means of X-ray reflectors with amber colored lenses recessed in the ceiling so that no light units are visible.

ROOM FOR MOTHERS

Leading from the main vestibule is a mother's room fully furnished and adjoining a lavatory and toilet. Two other toilet rooms as well as storage room and cloak rooms connect with the sub-auditorium on the ground floor. This auditorium will be used both for Sunday school, church social and social functions. It has a space for stage used also as a chance for Sunday school services. The auditorium has three street entrances, one of which is direct. A modern and elaborately equipped kitchen is located on the ground floor. The entire building, as well as the parsonage, is heated by means of a super smokeless furnace, which is fed from a coal bin located underneath the driveway.

Firms and individuals besides those previously mentioned that had a part in the construction and furnishing of the church are as follows: Fraser Lumber company, carpenter work, E. P. Knoll, Milwaukee, heating, J. J. Bauer plumbing, Langeladt Electric company, electric wiring and fixtures.

Marry For Love Alone To Be Happy

BY CYNTHIA GREY

Many a man thinks of the time before his marriage as his prewar period.

If getting married only made people near-sighted, how little jealousy there would be between husbands and wives!

Very few men marry their first sweethearts. That is the reason there are so many happy couples in the world.

The most successful match that any girl can make is to marry, not for money, position, or a home—but for love, and love alone!

QUESTIONS—ANSWERS

Dear Miss Grey: I am 20 and have been engaged for six months to a man who is studying to be a surgeon. He won't be able to marry for at least two years. We have petted a lot ever since we've known each other, but things are getting pretty serious. I'm afraid to go on as we've been doing, and at the same time I hate to tell the man I expect to marry that I can't let him make love to me any more. How could I explain this to him without making him feel that I have lost confidence in him?—Lucy B.

Explain it to him just as you have to me. It's perfectly clear to me that the only safe thing for two people who love each other and are facing a long engagement to do is to keep their relations on a basis of friendship and nothing else. It won't do for either of you to lose your head now when the young man's whole future career is at stake. An early marriage would probably wreck it.

Dear Miss Grey: The office building next to the one where I work is just across an alley. At a window not thirty feet from mine there's a young man who flirts with me whenever I happen to look out. At first I was angry, but as time goes on I begin to feel attracted to him. He lunches where I do, and tips his hat whenever we meet. So far I have not spoken. Would it be dreadful if I did?—Stenog.

Not dreadful, but foolish. And I have a theory that if a man really wants to know a girl he will find someone to introduce him to her. This young fellow probably is merely amused by his window-to-window flirtation. Don't take it seriously, or him either.

FASHION HINTS

VELVET TUNIC
A long velvet tunic slashed in the front to show the underslip of printed silks is a favorite of fashion at the present time.

CORDED SILK USED
Velveteen is very smart this season and of all trimmings nothing is more effective than corded silk in the same shade as the frock.

NEW BLOUSES
The very newest blouses have high, close collars and button down the back with a row of buttons set very close to each other.

NIGHT GOWNS
Very attractive night gowns are made of satin brocade crepe. They are finished with a pleated edge and untrimmed save for a bouquet of French flowers.

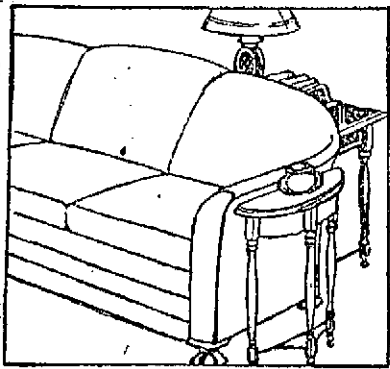

RIBBED SILK
White moure or ribbed silk is becoming as popular as satin and crepe de chine for evening gowns.

VANITY CASE
A novelty vanity case is of brilliant green bakelite with a long silk tassel in which are concealed a lip-stick.

COATS FOR SPRING
Coats for spring and summer are most interesting. Some of them are of figured material with linings of plain silk, and they have fascinating scarfs and revers that may be manipulated in several different ways.

How To Make Homes Cozy

DON'T WASTE SPACE

While overstuffed furniture, of the kind whose arms reach a foot or so from the seat, is a space waster. If it must be overstuffed, see that the arms take up no more space than is absolutely necessary.

"Feet Of Clay" Achieves Melodramatic Pitch

Hollywood — Hanging to a surf-board on which crouched the most popular girl of the Catalina beach season, Kerry Harlan was making love to Amy Loring. A shark interrupted. And in a fight to protect her Harlan had his foot badly mangled. They were married. They moved to New York, where their crowd lived. Harlan's bad foot, price of chivalry, handicapped him, and his bride fretted at the monotony.

For the first time in a year they went to a party. Against the doctor's strict orders, Kerry danced with his wife, to feed his rival's ardent attentiveness. The foot was injured and he had to remain quiet and jobless for a year.

Mrs. Harlan secured work as a cloak model. While she was away her half-sister, Mrs. Bertha Lansell, plied the young husband with a clandestine affection. Harlan resisted her advances, but his bride, discovering them together, doubted his loyalty and gave ear to Tony Channing's advances. Love was going askew.

The climax came when Harlan's doctor, also his brother-in-law, made a surprise visit to his patient. The doctor's wife, seeking escape, climbed out on a window ledge, dislodged her support and plunged to her death.

This, after a fashion, is a reportorial summary of the spectacular situation presented by Cecil B. De Mille in his new picture, "Feet of Clay."

A true story? Why ask that. Anything that may be imagined can be true. Margaret Tuttle, author, contrived the tale for a magazine. And De Mille, who may not always be pictorially veracious, is always entertaining.

In this film account he has invested a strong dramatic plot with characteristic De Mille atmosphere, lavish detail and piquancy. It is ample, and leisurely unfolded. One of the most impressive of his diverse products.

De Mille takes a distinct departure creates a novelty that will be widely discussed both as to its technical aspect and its content. The nebulous experiences of the young husband and wife, unconscious with gas, as De Mille pictures them, range from the majestic almost to the ludicrous. The prevailing impression, however, is one of awe as the young couple join a vast throng of the dead and dying, groping out along the span of eternity.

The acting is good beyond the ordinary. Vera Reynolds, in her first impressive part, creates a distinctive role as Amy. She has talent and allure. Rod La Rocque maintains his vigorous stride as Kerry Harlan. Julia Faye in the role of the young husband's temptress is measurably above her usual level. Ricardo Cortez, constantly growing in skill, is Harlan's likeable rival. And Robert Edison, the doctor, vitalizes a dull part.

"Feet of Clay" will doubtless be regarded as one of De Mille's most interesting features. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Household Hints

SOAK IN WATER

When vegetables have lost their crispness by being kept for any length of time, soak them in ice water to restore it.

MENDS LEAKS

Adhesive tape will make leaky overshoe water-tight. It will also mend umbrellas and raincoats.

GOOD DUSTER

Sprinkle a little furniture oil on a square of silkoline and you have a dustless, lintless duster.

USE THIMBLE

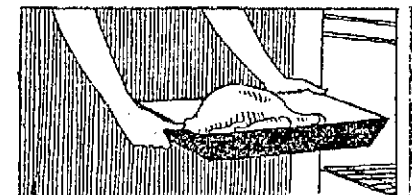

To run a rod through a thin net or muslin curtain, put a thimble over the end of the rod or wrap paper about the end and it will pass through the hem readily.

COST OF VARNISH

Straw suit cases and shopping bags will wear longer if you give them a coat of varnish occasionally.

COOKING CHICKEN

Only young and tender poultry should be roasted or broiled. The mature chicken is best boiled, stewed or fricasseed. Slower methods of cooking bring out the flavor and make the meat more tender.

USE THICK PASTE

Stains on mattresses may be removed by covering with a thick paste of laundry starch and soap jelly. Let it remain until dry, then brush off with a whisk broom.

SCALLOPED DISHES

To prepare buttered crumbs for scalloped dishes mix the dried crumbs with melted butter, using a fourth of a cup of butter to a cup of crumbs.

"Why do you say that, Karl?" asked Alice angrily. There is no reason why you should not have been at least co-executor with John.

"There is no reason, Alice, why I should be made co-executor. You know very well you are very anxious to go abroad to live, and it would have complicated things greatly not to have given John full rein. Alice will be sure of this when she has had time to think," said Karl, turning to mother. "She knows as well as I do about you. I have never in my whole life had anything to do but spend my income."

"Which, Karl, you have done with great kindness and profit to all those about you," I interpolated softly. For some reason, little Marquise, this seemed to enrage Alice beyond power of control.

"You, Leslie, should be able to bear testimony for you yourself have profited by Karl's kindness, as you call it, to an uncommon degree."

Every one but myself seemed horrified at this. Even mother started up in bed with a look of such pain on her face as she did not have when my father died.

Honestly, little Marquise, I thought John was going to strike Alice. He started toward her with doubled fists. I hastily got between them. Both Karl and mother made an exclamation of reproach.

"Alice, what is the matter with you?" said mother. "Don't you remember what you have come for? Your father lies dead in the other room, and you are letting your animosity and hate for your sister carry you beyond all bounds. It seems to me that some one else, some spirit of evil, has gotten into your body. I cannot otherwise understand why you say these things to your sister at all, let alone at such a time as this."

"Does the cold form of your father lying alone in the other room mean nothing to you? Have you schooled yourself only to hate, never to love? I shall find it in my heart almost to pity Karl. How can you quarrel with Leslie, who never has shown anything but kindness and love for you?"

"I cannot stay here to listen to this unseemly wrangling, which only means disrespect and utter indifference to your father's memory."

Safety Hints

CARELESSNESS CAUSES FIRE

Oil soaked rags or pieces of cloth covered with paint should be burned. If they are tucked away in a box or drawer they may cause a fire. Spontaneous combustion is responsible for many fires each year.

Health Hints

COMPOUND FRACTURES

"I am pleased to see that it is not a compound fracture," the doctor said, as he examined little Johnnie's broken leg.

Johnnie is one of the youngsters of Mrs. Mann's neighbor. "You see a compound fracture is where the broken bones break out through the skin," he explained as he prepared the splints.

"They are much more painful, and make a more serious wound than a simple fracture."

Next to the flesh the doctor placed some layers of old cloth, and then on each side of the limb he placed the splints.

He bound them tight with a strong cloth. "In a simple fracture it is necessary only to put the limb in splints," he said.

"But it will be some time before Johnnie will be able to walk again. And he sure to keep him quiet so the bones can knit together," he advised the mother. "If the bones knit properly in after years it will be difficult to distinguish the injured leg from the other one."

Adventures Of The Twins

The Purple Beech Tree

"Do you know any more wishes?" asked the Fairy Queen.

"Yes," said Nick. "I heard a purple beech tree say that it was tired of being just a tree and ever since it has been wanting to be a dragon."

"A dragon?" exclaimed the Fairy Queen. "Of all things—for a tree to wish to be a dragon?"

"It did though," said Nancy. "It told the dicky bird and the dicky bird told us."

"All right," said the Fairy Queen. "Come on, Two Spot, take us to the purple beech."

"I would far rather that the wizard attend to this," said the Fairy Queen. "I don't like dragons. But anyway, we'll see how it goes."

Soon they came to the purple beech.

A beauty it was, all spread out like a gay banner—its leaves a dark purple—its trunk and branches a lovely mouse-gray.

"Is it true that you wish to be a dragon?" asked the Fairy Queen.

"Yes'm," said the tree. "But why a dragon?" asked the Fairy Queen. "Why not a nice bossy cow or a cute little pig or something like that?"

"Humph! What I want is adventure," said the tree. "And whoever heard of a bossy cow and a little pig having adventures?"

"I did," said Nick. "Pigs have more adventures than billy goats. Didn't you ever hear of—"

"Will you please to be quiet!" said the tree. "Look at that!"

And it waved its arms toward a picture book. Sure enough, there was a dragon with three heads, each one breathing fire.

"You won't have any friends," warned the Fairy Queen.

"Won't need any. Would rather have a long scaly green tail any time," said the tree.

The Fairy Queen sighed. "All right, my dear. A dragon you shall be. Watch on, Two Spot, be ready to fly away quickly."

Then she waved her wand.

dragon with three heads and a long tail and awful looking eyes like—like jam pots.

"Oh!" cried the Twins.

"I quite agree with you," said the butterfly. "Here's where I leave."

And away he flew with his passengers.

Six cows in a field jumped the fence and ran into the woods. And the horses ran and the pigs ran and the ducks and geese and chickens ran, and the farmer and his wife ran and every living thing in the whole country ran except the fishes and one frog.

"Oh, ho, ho!" laughed the dragon that had been a tree. "Now I am mighty. It's a great thing to be feared. I suppose the prince will come soon like he did in the picture book and I'll bite his head off."

To think that a lovely kind tree with purple leaves where the blue birds nested should have such blood-thirsty thoughts.

It all shows what a picture book can do sometimes, if you don't look at it the right way.

Mother raised herself to a sitting posture. Sarah, her maid, motionlessly brought her dressing gown and put it over her shoulders. Both Karl and John jumped to their feet as she swung herself out of bed and Sarah put on her bedroom slippers. Then, between her son-in-law, she made a most dignified exit.

John told me afterward, little Marquise, that Karl apologized brokenly both to mother and him for Alice's conduct.

Oh, little Marquise, you can understand how unhappy this has made me. I thought all the trouble over those people was buried, and you see that Alice dug it up at the first opportunity.

Impulsively I determined to settle things once and for all. (Copyright, 1925, NEA Service, Inc.)

Remember, there's a difference between "ice" and "ice cream." Of course, you are getting a little forbidden sugar in the ice but no fat.

The average "filet mignon" weighs about 2 1/2 or 3 ounces. The usual collar of bacon or salt pork must be dispensed with for the reducing diet.

Pack the beet greens in small custard cups or any sort of convenient molds and turn out on a bed of cress to serve. Since the reducing diet must be meager in "good things" it should be made as attractive to the eye as possible.

The Weather

WEATHER FOR WISCONSIN
Increasing cloudiness. Probably snow tonight or Saturday. Colder.

GENERAL WEATHER

Except for rains on the Atlantic coast and light snows over the northern lake regions, the weather is generally fair in all sections. High pressure over the eastern states is accompanied by nearly normal temperatures.
Another high pressure area over the Canadian provinces has caused a drop in temperature in that region, the temperature falling to about normal reading in northern Alberta. Extensive low pressure over the remainder of the country with its center over the plateau region and southern Rocky mountain states is attended by considerable cloudiness and temperatures decidedly above normal. This low pressure area gives promise of other developments over the middle Mississippi valley with snow into Wisconsin.

BLUES DENY MILLSMEN HAVE RIGHT TO CROWN

Lawrence Claims Two Caging Titles After Ending Great Season

Beloit's Claims to State Crown Are Clouded by Refusal to Meet Carroll in Conference

With the defeat of Milton College by a 31 to 13 score Wednesday evening Lawrence College basketball team closed one of its most successful cage seasons. The Blues held the Midwest conference championship and are claimants of the Little Five title. The last previous championship won by a Blue cage team was back in 1919. The Dennyman have a record of 14 victories and 3 defeats against the strongest teams of the state and Midwest. They capped first place in the Midwest conference by winning 6 games and losing 1. Coe college of Iowa, ranks second with 12 victories and 3 defeats. Among the strong Midwest squads conquered by Denny's boys were Coe, Cornell, Beloit, Ripon and Wisconsin.

Lawrence's claim to the Little Five title is based on three wins and one defeat. Carroll also has three victories and only one loss to her credit and is another claimant. Ripon has dropped all 4 games played and Beloit was dropped from the conference this winter at her own request.

BELOIT DROPS OUT
Lawrence claims to the Little Five title are based on the fact that Beloit and Carroll refused to meet and in order to settle the matter Beloit dropped out of the conference at the Little Five meeting in the winter, according to Fred Trezise, faculty athletic manager of the Blues. The fact that Beloit refused to meet Carroll eliminates them from all consideration. The final settlement of the dispute will take place at the meeting of the faculty committee of Little Five colleges in Milwaukee later this part of March. Lawrence will either be given a clear claim to the title or be tied with Carroll for the honor at that time, Mr. Trezise said.

LAWRENCE STARTS STRONG
The Midwest champs opened their successful season with two easy victories over state colleges on the local floor. Milton was tumbled by a 28 to 10 score and Concordia College of Milwaukee went down under a barrage of baskets to the tune of 48 to 15. These games showed that Lawrence had the makings for a fine team and would be a strong contender for the state and Midwest titles. After a week of rest the Blue Five invaded Illinois for three games on consecutive nights. Loyola University was defeated by a 22 to 11 score, Wheaton College took the short end of a 24 to 11 count, and Northwestern College at Naperville administered the Blue's start beating, 28 to 24. Ashman was out of the game with a bad foot and Brice was put out on fouls in this tilt, but the shooting of Grove and Kosbab first string subs again strengthened Lawrence hopes.

In one of the season's most interesting games on the local floor Lawrence downed Ripon 13 to 6. The score at the half was 2 to 1 in favor of the Blues. The game was featured by great defensive work by both teams and the all-around play of Kotl. A 19 to 14 win over Cornell in another Midwest game was followed by loss to Carroll by a 22 to 11 score. The next evening Marquette's husky six-footers tested defeat at the hands of the Blue at the Cream City by a 25 to 11 count.

BELOIT GAME IS THRILLER
The next home game was another thriller when Coach Tommy Mills' Beloit Blue Devils lost a 25 to 23 decision in the last minute of play. Kotl's long shot tied the game with 45 seconds to go and another by Brice won it in the last 25 seconds. The shooting of Kotl and Brice for Lawrence and Von Drascheck and De Pauw for Beloit featured this tilt. Von Drascheck caged six pretty shots from mid floor. Marquette went down to defeat in the next home game by 33 to 17 count in a game featured by the shooting of Heineman, Kosbab, Blue first string sub, was lost to the squad just before this game when he left school.

The next victim of the fast-stepping Blues was the Midwest leader, Coe. Come came to Appleton with a record of 10 straight victories and no defeats. On the two preceding days the Kohawks had dropped Beloit and Ripon for the count, using her seconds against Ripon. Lawrence went into the Midwest lead by trouncing Coe 31 to 15 in a game marked by the all-around play of Lawrence and the Lawrentians and the shooting of Heineman who scored 20 of his team's points. Two more Midwest games went to the right side of the ledger when Lawrence trounced Ripon 37 to 14 and Knox 28 to 16. A victory over Carroll the next night gave Lawrence the claim on the second title in two days, the Knox victory clinching the Midwest title. The Blues only Midwest defeat was at Beloit when the state line five took the next game 14 to 12. Lawrence had hard luck on the basket, several sure ringers rolling from the hoop on the hard shots. On the following night the 31 to 13 victory over Milton closed the Blues' most successful cage season in years. Capt. Zussman and Heineman, Lawrence forwards starred in this game. Every member of the second team was given a chance in this game. Coach Denny closed his second year at Lawrence with a double championship.

MANY SWIMMING MARKS LOWERED DURING WINTER

No Less Than Four Marks Shattered in One Day at Miami Swim Meet

Miami, Fla.—Every winter season usually finds a bunch of swimming records erased from the boards. And this year seems to be no exception. One after another the old marks have topped some being bettered by men and only one loss to her credit and is another claimant. Ripon has dropped all 4 games played and Beloit was dropped from the conference this winter at her own request.

In a swimming carnival here the other day, no less than four marks were shattered. All of them were made by the fair sex, too. The group of record-smashers composed the Misses Gertrude Ederle, Allen Elgin, Adelaide Lambert, Helen Vainwright, Doris O'Mara and Ethel McGary.

The girls swam in that order in the 400, 500 and 600-yard relay races, angling up new world marks in each. In addition to the stellar relay exhibitions, Miss Ethel Lackie of the Illinois A. C. broke Miss Lambert's record of 1:25 for 120 yards in a trial against time. She covered the distance in 1:15 2-5, another world record. On another occasion, Miss Agnes Jeraghty established a new figure in the 400-yard breast-stroke event, beating Miss Eleanor Coleman of Milwaukee in the sensational time of 7:20 4-5. The former mark was 7:33. And Miss Martha Norellus cut the 300-meter free-style record from 4:19 3-5 to 4:12 3-5. The holder of the former mark was Miss Wainwright. One of the latest to break into the spotlight is Arne Borg, Swedish Olympic star. Borg, swimming the 300-meter distance, clipped 6 4-5 seconds from Johnny Weissmueller's world record made in Honolulu in 1922. Borg made it in 3:38 1-5.

SPRING CAMP NOTES YOU'LL NEVER READ
BOB Quinn of the Red Sox admitted today he was tired kidding the customers. "I've got an awful appreciation of pond lilies and I'll be sorely disappointed if I finish any better than eighth," he said.

Judge Landis today shot the Quirkmy-Wormy course in 115. "It's the best score I ever made," confessed the judge, who spends 12 hours a day on the Florida lands dignifying baseball.

Adler Huggins plans to start the season again with Babe Ruth in the lineup. "It's just a big fat clown at the fist in the provincial cities like to see him strike out."

Stanley Harris told reporters today all the stories about his being a youthful genius was just pure rot. "I had more luck than a roat in a rag-pickers storeroom last year and that's why Washington won."

Oaf Simp who hit .500 in the O. League, joined the Tygers today. Cobb predicted great things for him as a wunter or a freight elevator man. Cobb will come in for a great deal of attention while here and deserves it.

Short Stop, famous baseball expert, today made public his annual selections in the two big league races. "I don't think I'm any further wrong than usual," writes Short Stop. Last season, it will be recalled, he picked the White Sox to win in the American and the Braves in the National.

One Punch O'Goofy has been appointed assistant manager and third base coach of the Giants. Mr. O'Goofy doesn't know a delayed steal from a standing stiller glove, but he's a great friend of the club owner and that's why he's in.

Speed Ball McGinnity pulled up with a lame arm today and it was rumored he hurt it trying to hit a new cure. The truth is Speed Ball strained the arm in his room trying to make a pass for 10 smackers. Ten's a tough point.

This burr is one of the greatest training spots in the world. You can get real burr right over the bar, the hard shots. On the following night the 31 to 13 victory over Milton closed the Blues' most successful cage season in years. Capt. Zussman and Heineman, Lawrence forwards starred in this game. Every member of the second team was given a chance in this game. Coach Denny closed his second year at Lawrence with a double championship.

Hamilton, Ont.—Paavo Nurmi, Finnish runner, clipped more than a minute from the Canadian championship for the mile and a half in six minutes 55.15 seconds.

Appleton High Five Fights For Second Place With Crimson

Fond du Lac and Orange Both Have Chance to Oust Sheboygan in Final Contests

Two games Friday night will end the basketball season in the Fox river valley high school conference. Fond du Lac playing in Appleton and Sheboygan in Manitowish. Neither of these two contests will endanger Fond du Lac's claim to the championship, but they may decide who will end in second place.

Appleton has a chance for second honors if the Orange wins its game and Manitowish beats Sheboygan, but if Appleton and Sheboygan both lose Fond du Lac will win the distinction. However, a win by Sheboygan would establish the Chair City schoolers more firmly in second place where they now are perched precariously.

Officials of the conference announced the season of 1924-1925 has been the most successful since the organization of the valley conference. More than 58,000 fans attended the 60 conference games already played, and the two games scheduled for Friday night are expected to raise this mark considerably.

Most of the games were spectacular and well played. Eighteen were called for overtime after the final whistle. Clean play and good sportsmanship prevailed and not a single dispute marred the relations of the schools.

East Green Bay carried off high honors with seven games won and two lost, and in both defeats the Hill tappers lost by but one point. Manitowish, handicapped by a light team went through the whole season in the cellar position and still remains there.

TWO BADGER WOMEN SURVIVE IN GOLF

Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Clashes With Frances Hadfield in Florida

Bellaire Heights, Fla.—Two women from the Quaker City will match wits in the semi-finals of the annual Bellaire Heights women's golf tournament here Friday when Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, national champion, meets Mrs. G. H. Stetson. At the same time two young women from Wisconsin will be struggling for entrance into the finals. Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh clashes with Miss Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee who Wednesday eliminated Mrs. Glenna Cullett of Providence, medalist of the qualifying round.

Mrs. Hurd Thursday defeated Mrs. Alex Smith of New York while Mrs. Stetson eliminated Mrs. J. W. Turnbull of Chicago. Miss Hadfield entered the semi-finals through her defeat of Miss Dorothy Klotz of Chicago. Miss Wall won from Mrs. Stetor of Hutchinson, Kas.

GIBBONS PLANS BOUT WITH ROCHESTER MAN

STAGG WILL START GRIDDEERS APRIL 1

Chicago, Apr. 1 was selected by Coach Stagg at the opening day of spring football practice for the University of Chicago eleven, the present conference champions, although practice one day a week has been going on all winter.

Stagg is beginning drills a little early this year, to compete with teams like Illinois, Michigan and Ohio State, who have been working out at the gridiron sport all winter. Illinois holds its sessions under the new grandstand, Michigan is Tost Field house, and Ohio State in its field house.

Chicago is hindered at present by the lack of adequate room for winter practice, although plans and financing of the proposed Maroon field house have already been completed.

NEW ZEALAND CHALLENGES FOR DAVIS TENNIS TROPHY

Milwaukee—For the first time in almost a decade American tennis enthusiasts will have an opportunity to see the leading players of New Zealand competing on United States courts this summer for New Zealand have filed a Davis cup challenge to play in the American zone. Not since 1914, when Anthony Wilding starred, have New Zealand players been seen in tennis action in this country. Until two years ago New Zealand combined its tennis strength with that of Australia and played under the national title of Australia. Last year New Zealand challenged as a separate nation.

Mr. Conroy will arrive here a week before the fight to convince the commission of his fitness.

Gibbons was signed yesterday for the match which is a substitute for the Harry Greb-Gene Tunney contest, postponed because of injuries Greb suffered in a holdup at Pittsburgh. The Greb-Tunney fight will take place March 37.

POSTPONE RECREATION HALL TITLE CONTEST

Inability of one of the players to appear Thursday night caused the postponement of the championship match in the Recreation Hall billiards tournament here, in which "Doc" Kolb and W. Russell were due to cross cues. The match will be played off Friday night.

On Monday Mar. 16, a three cushion billiards tournament is scheduled to start in Recreation Hall. More than 20 entries already have been received, and as the lists are open up to Mar. 14, several more are expected. All Appleton cue artists are eligible to enter.

MICHIGAN EXPECTS STRONG BALL TEAM

University of Michigan looks for a great baseball team this season. Coach Fisher will have pretty close to a perfect aggregation, though Harry Kipke and Jack Blott, two stars of the 1924 season, are missing. Another good pitcher or two, how ever, and the Maize and Blue should be in the running for Big Ten hon ors.

WOMAN'S CLUB QUINT MEETS COED CAGERS

Appleton Women's club basketball team will meet the Lawrence college team in a return game in the high school gymnasium at 7:30 Saturday night. The coeds defeated the club cagers by two points in a hard-fought game on the Lawrence courts recently, caging the winning basket in the last minute of play. The club cagers are anxious to even the score and have been putting in many hard nights of practice. Coach Zussman's team held the final practice Friday afternoon after which the starting line-up was chosen. The game is open to the public and an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

ALL APPLETON BOWLERS ELIGIBLE FOR TOURNEY

All Appleton bowlers are eligible to the whirligig doubles bowling tournament scheduled for Saturday afternoon and evening, Mar. 7, on the Elks alleys. An entry fee of $1 will be charged for each event in which a bowler is entered. Keglers will be permitted to bowl as many times as they desire but must change partners each time. In each previous tourney of this kind there have been bowlers who took several slices of the prize money because of this arrangement.

Bowlers are requested to come as early as possible to avoid the usual rush at the weekly events. The entry list has been growing steadily since the whirligig tournament became a weekly event, but there still is room for a few more on the alleys.

GREB'S ROBBERY YARN DRAWS POLICE NOTICE

Pittsburg, Pa. — A new version of the alleged attack on Harry Greb, middleweight boxing champion, and his valet, appeared Thursday with the report of a police investigation in which it was declared that Greb attempted to interfere in a free-for-all fight among six young men. Greb had reported the affair as a hold-up, but declared at a police hearing later that one of his companions might have lost a diamond ring she found missing.

Greb's name figured in another police case Thursday. Harry Meyer, a hotel proprietor, reported that he and the boxer were swindled out of $500 in a "so-called crap game," with two young women Wednesday night. The women fled when they were accused of using loaded dice, Meyer told police.

VETERAN HAS BEST YEAR DURING 1924

Hooper, White Sox Outfielder, Increases Batting Average Each Year

Chicago—Some ball players, like wine, seem to improve with age. Take for instance, Harry Hooper, veteran outfielder of the White Sox. Hooper came into the majors back in 1909. For several seasons he was a member of the famous Boston Red Sox outfield, composed of Hooper, Speaker and Lewis, which has often been called one of the game's greatest. In 1921 he was traded to Chicago, where he has remained since. Despite his 16 seasons of active service, Hooper appears to be improving instead of going back. A glance at his batting record for the past ten years will vouchsafe that remark.

In 1914 Hooper hit .258, a remarkably low figure for a regular outfielder. Five years later, or in 1919, he hit .267, a jump of nine points. And, another five years—1924—found him hitting .328, a leap of 61 points. Thus over a stretch of 10 years Hooper succeeded in elevating his average a total of 70 points. In other words, he reached a higher figure in the batting columns last season than he has ever done during his major league career.

FIRPO DRAWS 398 FANS IN MONTE CARLO BOUT

Paris—Angel Firpo, the Argentine battler and erstwhile contender for the world's heavyweight belt, came back to Paris Thursday, somewhat stouter, but still hopeful. Ring experts asserted he was 40 pounds overweight.

Luis was somewhat pessimistic regarding the boxing sport in general. He said his exhibition bout with Townsend at Monte Carlo drew an attendance of 398 by actual count, and that 30 per cent of those were complainers, or "elegant gate crashers."
"Maybe I'll go back to America," he said. "It's pretty hard to train in France."

RESERVE OFFICERS WANT TO ORGANIZE LOCAL CHAPTER

Meeting Will Be Held for This Purpose Thursday Night,
March 12

Organization of a local chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States will be discussed at a meeting at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, March 12 at the chamber of commerce rooms. All reserve officers have been asked to attend.

The meeting has been called by Lieut. P. O. Ketcher, chaplain of the Reserve Corps at the request of Maj. Robert P. Boardman, Oshkosh president of Eastern Wisconsin chapter of the association. Lieut. Ketcher has only the Outagamie co. list, which shows 40 officers available for membership. Capt. Fred E. Rogers of Appleton is sending invitations to these men asking them to attend and help decide whether to organize a chapter. There are quite a few reserve officers in Neenah and Menasha and Maj. Boardman suggests that these become members of Outagamie co. chapter instead of the one at Oshkosh, because this city is nearer.

"Many reserve officers have expressed the feeling that much greater service could be rendered if there were an organization," said Lieut. Ketcher. "Greater benefits and privileges might be enjoyed through contact with one another in such an association than as individuals scarcely knowing one another."

The association is open to all who hold commissions in the Officers Reserve Corps and any who have not received commissions are invited to attend. Mr. Ketcher says. It is expected that a strong local chapter will be organized.

CABBAGE GROWERS WILL ELECT OFFICERS MAR. 18

The place for holding the meeting of Outagamie County Cabbage Growers association will be in the council chambers of the city hall. It has been arranged by the officers. The meeting will take place at 1:30 in the afternoon of Mar. 18. It will be the first meeting of the association since its incorporation. Officers will be elected and cooperative marketing will be discussed.

MATT SCHMIDT OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY ON SUNDAY

Matt Schmidt, pioneer Appleton merchant, will observe the fifty-sixth anniversary of his connection with the clothing business in Appleton on Sunday March 8. Mr. Schmidt started work in a clothing store in 1869 and in 1898 he started in business for himself. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on April 18.

TAPAYERS SLOW TO FILE REPORTS

Hardly more than one-half of the 12,000 persons of this county are required to file state income tax returns have fulfilled this obligation to the state, according to Leo J. Toonen, assessor of incomes. This means that in the ten days remaining before the close of the filing period the office at the courthouse will be flooded with straggling returns.

The same complaint is made by the two federal income tax experts at the city hall, H. L. Goodrich and James D. Danielson. The latter is a field man of the internal revenue service who recently made Appleton his home. The filing of returns is now about double that of last week. What the income tax experts wish to avoid is a deluge of reports on the last day. The period for filing reports closes at midnight, Mar. 18.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading prepared for members of Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

THE LORD OF THE SABBATH

Read Lk. 11:11 Text 55 The son of man is lord of the sabbath

MEDITATION—Jesus taught that the Sabbath is for the highest good of men. It is lawful for men to satisfy hunger. It is lawful to heal the sick and to do good. The Sabbath is a day of worship, rest and refreshment. Jesus freed the day of the Pharisees. The true disciples should do nothing for his own material gain but should consider well his spiritual necessities and give private meditation that his soul may be refreshed.

Men and women out of the thick of life coming to the church on the Lord's Day tired and discouraged and get something that sends them back to their work with new courage and resolution, for the church is the powerhouse of civilization.

PRAYER—Our Father, we would have the mind of Christ towards the Sabbath. May our fellowship with thee be very real. Teach us the secret of fruitful worship. Let the inspiration and peace of the Sabbath Day enter our souls and abide with us through the busy days of the week. Amen

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress.

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meal or overeat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bismarcked Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bismarcked Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISMARCKED Magnesia—not a laxative. adv.
